FORESTRY BILL PASSAGE SEEN DESPITE FIGHT

PROMPT ENACTMENT FORECAST BY WALSH

(Associated Press.)

A two-hour White House conference last night failed to suppress strong opposition to President Roosevelt's reforestation employment plans, but congressional leaders nevertheless forecast approval of the legislation possibly next week despite the objectors.

The President called together a majority of the Senate and House Labor Committees after finding that opposition to his plan had developed to the point where Representative Connery (Democrat), Massachusetts, succeeded in forcing joint hearings by the House and Senate groups on the proposal.

Although Connery said as he left the White House that as chairman of the House Committee he "still can not support the bill in its present form," Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, told newspapermen: "There is no doubt that the bill will be enacted substantially as recommended next week."

Compromises Not Favored.

Connery had offered various compromises for portions of the measure to which he objected, but these, he said, were not received favorably. One would have guaranteed $30 a month to single and $80 a month to married men among the 250,000 the President expects to put to work in reforestation.

Another would have substituted other language for the portion of the bill that authorizes the President to "select" recruits for the new "conservation corps."

The word "select," Connery said, was "used in the war draft, and with it in this bill the President could draft his workers."

Nearly all other members of the House and Senate committees who heard President Roosevelt's explanation of the bill left the White House predicting enactment next week.

Secretaries in Conference.

Initial steps to whip into shape President Roosevelt's reforestation scheme for the unemployed were taken earlier yesterday at a meeting of four members of the Cabinet, all of whom sat in last night. They

Dr. Judd Appeals For Life of Wife

Admits Ruth Contradicted Herself Many Times in Testimony.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 22 (A.P.).—Dr. William C. Judd interceded graphically today with the Arizona board of pardons and paroles for the life of Winnie Ruth Judd, his wife.

"There is no use denying she has contradicted herself time after time," he said. "That was the chief reason she did not testify at her trial. We couldn't trust her for 24 hours."

Dr. Judd will complete his testimony tomorrow, and thereafter the board announced itself prepared to begin, in private, its summing up of evidence now in its possession.

Hull Seeks to Draft New Economic Policy

Works Daily With Moley and Dr. Feis on Practical Realization of Promises Made by President During His Campaign.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

A new economic policy for the United States, embracing war debts, tariffs, trade restrictions and other problems on the world economic conference agenda is being worked out by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, it became known here last night. For some time the new Secretary of State has been in prolonged conferences every afternoon with Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley and the economist of the State Department, Dr. Herbert Feis, on the practical working out of this program.

The essential basis for the new policy will be the preelection promises of President Roosevelt. Secretary Hull has started with the Roosevelt statements of months ago and has built upon them an elaborate and thorough-going approach to the main political and economic problems of the moment. The new program of the United States will link these various subjects together in a series of interconnected conversations between the United States and the principal countries of the world. Secretary Hull believes that a comprehensive study of these various problems concurrently will afford a more immediate and a more effective remedy to the world-wide depression.

For this reason the new Secretary of State has the intention of securing for the Executive the necessary powers from Congress to make special trade agreements, either on a reciprocal basis or with several countries.

The Secretary declared yesterday that he hopes to secure favorable consideration of a measure to authorize the administration to conduct negotiations for reciprocal commercial treaties based on mutual tariff concessions.

Secretary Hull is of the opinion that a too great concentration on any one phase of the international economic situation detracts from a solution of the basic problem which is world-wide and of general concern. The problem of the intergovernmental debts has been given an inordinate amount of attention which in the last analysis has prevented a more advanced study of the international tariff situation, upon which the debts to a considerable extent depend.

In taking this line of policy, Secretary Hull believes that a comprehensive study of these various problems concurrently will afford a more im-

U. S. RUSHES ACTION IN MITCHELL'S CASE

Seeks to Avoid Intervention of Limitations Statute in Tax Charges.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Racing against the statute of limitations, United States Attorney George Z. Medalie laid before a Federal grand jury today the case of Charles E. Mitchell, who was arrested last night on a charge of evading a $657,152 income tax in 1929.

With a painstaking investigation completed into a transaction by which Mitchell said he sold a block of National City Bank stock to his wife at a loss of $2,800,000, the authorities made speed their watchword. In the case of at least one of the charges against the gray-haired banker the statute of limitations will apply in about three weeks.

Max D. Steuer, widely known criminal lawyer, was retained late today to join a distinguished array of counsel in the defense. It was learned that two main arguments will be advanced for defense. First, that reputable attorneys assured Mitchell he was within his rights in deducting the loss he claimed; second that the transaction was a bona fide sale.

At the same time the grand jury heard testimony regarding Mitchell's alleged tax evasion investigators delved into a special account of the National City Bank from which the resigned chairman testified he and other officers received $9,000,000 in three years, in addition to their salaries. The payments were authorized by the directors, but Medalie said there was some question of their legality, nevertheless.

Mitchell testified to receiving these payments before the Senate committee investigating stock market practices, at the same time that he disclosed the details of the stock transfer to his socially prominent wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Rend Mitchell.

Medalie presented three witnesses before the grand jury today and placed in evidence a number of exhibits, including Mitchell's income tax return and bank records. He declined to give any further information at the end of the day, but said the inquiry would be continued tomorrow.

136 Women Escape Fire at Infirmary

Warrensville, Ohio, Haven Is Swept by Flames; Loss, $30,000.

Cleveland, March 22 (A.P.).—Flames which spread rapidly through a three-story women's dormitory at the Cleveland Infirmary, in suburban Warrensville, tonight destroyed that part of the institution and threatened the lives of 136 occupants. Infirmary officials, however, said all were saved.

Several hours later firemen said the blaze was under control and that there was little danger the fire would spread to connecting units of the infirmary. They estimated damage at $30,000. All of the women were led or carried to safety by volunteers working under the direction of J. J. Sullivan, superintendent, and Miss Agnes Schultz, head matron.

Police aided firemen in directing the fight against the flames, as all available apparatus in the southeastern section of Cleveland was rushed to the scene. The cause was not determined.

HOUSE PASSES FARM AID BILL; BATTLE LOOMS

POWERS TO WALLACE ARE UNPRECEDENTED

White House Will Take Second Step fo Agriculture Within Week.

(Associated Press.)

A fourth giant display of Roosevelt strength yesterday sped through the House to a more doubtful Senate future a new remedy for farming ills.

Two days of debate bristling with criticism of the drastic farm relief plan mustered only 98 opposition votes when the roll was called on a bill virtually identical with that sent from the White House last week.

Against this small minority of 73 Republicans, 24 Democrats and 1 Farmer-Laborite, the Democratic machine rolled up 315 votes, including 39 Republicans and 4 Farmer-Laborites.

Wallace Gets Large Powers.

The measure would confer upon Secretary Wallace unprecedented powers to deal with the farm situation. Under its terms he could apply any of several methods of controlling surpluses and reducing acreages, including features of the domestic allotment plan, rental of lands to retire them from production and the Smith plan of reducing cotton plantings by giving in exchange options on Government-owned cotton.

While the House chamber echoed with debate it was made known that within the week the administration would have ready its second step in the farm field—a plan for refinancing agriculture and home mortgages at lower rates of interest and amortization.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, said he planned to have this new administration plan attached to the relief bill in the Senate. Although this would require further consideration of the present bill by the House, it is calculated to save time in enacting the whole program.

Amendments Prepared.

In the Senate, hundreds of amendments to the relief bill were in preparation to back the many demands for revision. Nevertheless, the Democratic leaders were confident of getting the measure through in a form acceptable to Mr. Roosevelt.

The ranks of those demanding revision were joined yesterday by Chair-

GERMAN NAZIS SEEK UNION WITH AUSTRIA

Republicanism Vanishes in Sweep of Hitlerites Into Full Power.

Berlin, March 22 (A.P.).—The aspirations of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's Nazis for a political union of Germany and Austria were emphatically proclaimed today at the opening session of the Prussian Diet.

The spokesman for union was Wilhelm Kube, the Nazi floor leader. Amidst the greatest enthusiasm he saluted eight Austrian Nazis who were in the gallery, and declared:

"As the leader of the Nazis in this house and on the order of Chancellor Hitler, I, as a Prussian, say that we Prussians are Pan-Germans, that we shall continue to be so, and that we shall have obtained our goal only when all Germany, including German Austria, is united with our fatherland in one great state which can then serve Germany's mission in the world."

The well-oiled parliamentary machine functioned perfectly, disposing within 43 minutes of a Diet program that ordinarily would have necessitated weeks of deliberation.

Tonight the only check restraining the Nazis from overrunning everybody appeared to be the determination of Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen not to let a Hitlerite have the coveted post of Prussian premier. Surprise was occasioned at today's session when Tans Kerrl, who was re-

Chamberlain Sees U. S. Improvement

Chancellor Asserts Marked Change Has Occurred Since March 4.

London, March 22 (A.P.).—"An almost miraculous change," has occurred in the United States since the inauguration of President Roosevelt, Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain said in the House of Commons tonight. Mr. Chamberlain referred to economic conditions throughout the world as well as in the United States, and his remarks were optimistic.

"Looking over the world," he said, "one can see indications that the industrial situation is likely to improve within the next few months."

Recent improvement in the United States, he asserted, has been reflected on this side of the ocean.

Garage Explosion Kills Bell Captain

Three Hurt as Gasoline Fumes Are Ignited in Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, March 22 (A.P.).—Robert Kennedy, 22, was killed today in an explosion that caused several hundred dollars' damage to a downtown parking garage. Three other persons were injured.

The explosion is believed to have been caused by ignition of gasoline fumes by an electric spark.

Mrs. "Jimmy" Walker's Divorce Recommended

Miami, Fla., March 22 (A.P.).—Dissolution by divorce of the marriage of Janet Allen Walker and James J. Walker, former Mayor of New York City, was recommended to circuit court here today by T. J. Dowdell, master in chancery. Yesterday the master heard testimony of Mrs. Walker and other witnesses in the suit she filed.

His recommendation now goes to Judge Worth W. Trammell, before whom the suit was filed. Usually in Florida the court complies with the master's recommendations in divorce proceedings. The master acts as the court's agent in hearing testimony.

Secretary Perkins Invites Great Labor Parley Here

William Green, Who Was Piqued by Her Appointment to Cabinet Post, Among National Leaders to Meet March 31.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Frances Perkins, at the request of President Roosevelt, yesterday issued invitations to a number of labor leaders and others interested to a conference here March 31 on unemployment relief measures.

William Green, the American Federation of Labor president, who expressed disappointment at Miss Perkins' appointment as a Cabinet member, headed the list of more than 30 officials of labor groups invited. Green said yesterday he had not yet received Miss Perkins' invitation, but let it be known that he would "undoubtedly be willing to attend."

Miss Perkins, in announcing her conference, said it was her feeling that "in the immediate emergency, certain items ought to be developed as the point of view of labor."

A program of permanent improvement of labor and industrial standards should also be considered as possible guides to legislation and to standard practice, she added. She therefore mapped out a two-part conference.

To be considered under "emergency items" are: Unemployment relief measures, a program of public works, short hours as a means of furthering employment, how to increase purchasing power of the wage earners, unemployment insurance, home mortgage problems of wage earners and unemployed, along with a canvass of possibilities of reabsorbing labor into its normal employments.

Declaring "there is grave danger lest the depression and unemployment may have caused a lowering of industrial standards which will be felt for years to come," Miss Perkins outlined under "permanent improvement" the formulation of a program "to assure a progressive rise in stand-

HOUSE WILL DEBATE DISTRICT BEER BILL TODAY; PRESIDENT WRITES END TO VOLSTEADISM

Mrs. Norton Will Fight to Include This City.

SENATE READY TO RUSH BILL

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

House decks unexpectedly were cleared last night for a vote today on the District beer bill.

The vote will follow an hour's limited debate, under a special rule favorably reported yesterday by the House Rules Committee.

The change of plans was announced by House Democratic Leader Joseph W. Byrns immediately after the President attached his signature to the national beer measure.

Representative Byrns, who originally had scheduled consideration of the bill for Monday, obtained unanimous consent of the House for the Rules Committee to file its report before midnight last night.

Mrs. Norton Leads Wets.

Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey, chairman of the House District Committee, will direct the wet offensive when debate opens on the rule today.

Leading the apparently futile fight to defeat the measure will be Representative Gale H. Stalker, dry New York Republican, who will parcel out time on his side of the chamber.

It was learned that a number of committee amendments, correcting oversights and discrepancies tardily discovered in the measure, will be offered from the floor by Mrs. Norton. It is even possible that an entirely rewritten version of the bill may be substituted through proper committee channels.

The District corporation counsel's office worked late last night on revision of certain features of the local measure. Cooperating in redrafting the measure were Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride and his assistant, Vernon E. West.

Senate Hearings Near.

Apprised of the House action, Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, chairman of the Senate District Beer subcommittee, said he will order Senate hearings tomorrow if the House passes the bill today. Hearings will be brief, with witnesses

DRYS TO MAKE COURT BATTLE

Brewed Beverage to Be Legal in Many States April 7.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Using four "new deal" pens in a brief but momentous ceremony, President Roosevelt yesterday wrote a dramatic finale to that weird American epic which ultimately is to be catalogued in our historical archives as "The Life and Times of Andrew J. Volstead."

Seated at the head of the Cabinet table in the executive offices and surrounded by a bewildering array of picture machinery and sound gadgets, the President affixed his name to the Cullen-Harrison beer bill at exactly 2 o'clock.

So far as Federal law is concerned, beer and wine are back.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue immediately announced permission to the brewers to open the spigots to the bottling plants.

Effective April 7.

The new law, which modifies the Volstead act of January 17, 1920, legalizes the manufacture and sale of beer and wines of not more than 3.2 per cent alcoholic content, by weight, subject to State regulatory laws.

Under a ruling by Dr. J. M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, the law becomes effective throughout the entire country at midnight April 6, Eastern standard time.

A bill to make the law applicable in the District of Columbia will be taken up in the House at noon today, under a special rule limiting debate to one hour.

Drys Announce Appeal.

Through Edward B. Dunford, its attorney, the Antisaloon League of America announced last night that a Supreme Court test of the constitutionality of the modification measure "will certainly be made when the requisite circumstances arise."

Cheers Predominate.

Cheers and lamentations went up from coast to coast as news of the historic signing was flashed from the happy White House setting—but a late count last night indicated the cheers away out in front.

A tortuous path through cloistered legal interpretations and definitions

ASSAULT SUSPECT SAVED FROM MOB

Goochland Courthouse, Va., March 22 (A.P.).—Bernard Fleming, Powhatan County Negro, was held at the State farm today as a suspect in an attempted criminal assault on a 15-year-old school girl.

Fleming, sought by a posse of 600 men who followed bloodhounds over the countryside for several hours after the attempted assault, was taken into custody at his home last night.

He was spirited by Capt. Penn across the river to the State farm for safekeeping after threats at lynching had been made.

Commonwealth's Attorney Milton P. Bonifant, of Powhatan County, who questioned the suspect at the State farm, said his course of action had not been determined. He said the grand jury meets on May 23 and that it had not been determined whether a special term would be called.

The girl has not been brought before Fleming in an attempt at identification.

Officers said that the attempted attack occurred near a highway about 3 miles from Powhatan Courthouse. They said she had just left the school bus and was walking home when a man jumped from an old barn nearby, seized the girl, dragged her inside and attempted to attack her.

In her struggles the girl was said to have kicked a small door off its hinges. As it fell it attracted the attention of Harrison Tillman, who was driving along the road at the time. The man ran as Tillman stopped to investigate.

Commonwealth's Attorney Bonifant said a cap snatched by the girl from the head of her assailant was identified by a storekeeper as one that he sold to Fleming.

2 Named Prosecutors Of Judge Louderback

(Associated Press.)

The House yesterday appointed Representatives Perkins, of New Jersey, and Guyer, of Kansas, Republicans, as House managers to serve with Sumners, of Texas; Browning, of Tennessee, and Tarver, of Georgia, to prosecute the impeachment case against Federal Judge Harold C. Louderback, of San Francisco, Calif.

They succeed former Representatives LaGuardia, of New York, and Sparks, of Kansas, defeated Republicans. The trial will be held before the Senate.

Daughter of Former House Member Stolen

Decatur, Ill., March 22 (A.P.).—Martha Adkins, 23, daughter of former Representative Charles Adkins, was recovering in her home today after having been kidnaped and beaten by two unidentified men who forced her into their car near her home last night.

Miss Adkins said she was thrown from the car about ten blocks from her home after a struggle with her captors.

Father Hammered Fatally by Youth

Slayer Says He Killed to Protect His Mother From "Tyrant."

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—A 17-year-old high school boy hammered his father to death today and told police he did it to protect his mother from a "tyrant."

The boy, Anthony Malandro, said he saw the father, Angelo, beat Mrs. Malandro with an iron bar. He seized a hammer and struck his father on the head.

The man fell to the floor, jumped up and seized his daughter, Josephine, 23, the boy said. Anthony struck again and the man fell dead.

DALADIER CONSIDERS VISIT TO MUSSOLINI

Wants Direct Discussions of Plan for Projected Four-Power Peace Club.

Paris, March 22 (A.P.).—A trip by Premier Edouard Daladier to Italy for a direct discussion with Premier Mussolini may be the next move in efforts to organize a four-power "peace club," it developed today.

The meeting apparently depends on the reaction of Premier Mussolini to the conversations in Paris held yesterday by M. Daladier and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain. The British and French statesmen discussed the Mussolini "peace club" project, which the Italian premier had explained to Mr. MacDonald when the British prime minister was in Rome last week-end.

Semiofficially it was revealed that no plans have yet been made for the Daladier-Mussolini meeting, which probably will take place in northern Italy. For a number of years the Italian premier has made it a rule not to leave his own country.

In principle the French have agreed to the Mussolini plan, but certain modificatons have been asked. The French want the "peace club" to operate within the framework of the League of Nations because they believe they would be able to muster

Chicago Should Finish Sewer Job, Court Told

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court was urged by its own investigator yesterday to "require" the Illinois General Assembly to appropriate millions of dollars to complete control works and sewage treatment works at Chicago in compliance with the court order in the lake diversion case.

This unprecedented recommendation, made by Edward F. McClennen, of Boston, as special master for the court, was accompanied by a statement that the State of Illinois and the Chicago Sanitary District were guilty of "inexcusable delay" in failing to push the works.

Powers Discussing Joint Debt Action

France and Britain May Act Together, Late Paris Report.

Paris, March 22 (A.P.).—Joint action by France and Great Britain regarding their debts to the United States is being discussed in Chamber of Deputies lobbies, Le Matin tonight quoted Finance Minister Georges Bonnet as saying.

The newspaper added that the matter might be considered in the chamber, which is considering a resolution to pay the defaulted $19,000,000 American debt installment due last December.

Earlier M. Bonnet, who recently discussed plans for the projected world economic conference with statesmen in London, was said to have reported that Great Britain will not demand payment of the war debt installment due from France in June. The chamber will hear Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour before deciding on the resolution for payment.

100 Irate Women Foil Foreclosure

Indefinite Delay Is Result, With Sheriff Hemmed in His Office.

Madison, Minn., March 22 (A.P.).—By preventing the sheriff from leaving his office, 100 women forced postponement of a mortgage foreclosure sale here today. Only a few men were in the crowd, most of them having gone to St. Paul to join in an organized demand for relief legislation.

The women decided to take their places and attempt prevention of the sale. Sheriff A. G. Smaagaard, who said he was unable to leave his office because the women crowded about him, telephoned a representative of the insurance company holding the mortgage and then announced indefinite postponement.

The farm is of 160 acres near Dawson, owned by Knut Anderson. The mortgage is for $8,043. Because the owner did not reside on the tract it was not affected by the foreclosure holiday proclaimed several weeks ago by Gov. Floyd B. Olson.

FRENZIED BANKING AFFECTS REVENUES

(Associated Press.)

Erratic banking conditions of the country in February were reflected yesterday in statistics issued by the Internal Revenue Bureau showing tax collections for the month.

The total amounted to $90,715,108, an increase of approximately $4,000,000 as compared to January, due largely to larger income tax receipts. The bank situation, however, caused a drop of $662,416 in the tax collected on checks, lowering the total to $3,122,638, while the tax on safety deposit boxes reflected the rush to rent them and increased $24,445, to $255,849. The tax on gasoline dropped from $11,341,892 in January to $8,515,013, and that on electrical energy declined from $3,016,606 to $2,750,902.

Another sharp cut in tax receipts was shown in the amount collected on telephone, telegraph and radio messages and facilities, which dropped from $1,420,783 in January to $545,754. The tax on candy was $129,163 less than for the previous month, amounting to $269,325. The tax on furs also fell, bringing in $433,620, as compared with $921,511 in January.

Income taxes for the month returned $27,713,376, as compared with $17,888,855 in January, making the total for the eight months of the fiscal year $388,769,890, a drop of $271,988,241.

Tobacco taxes also were off, returning $28,766,897 for the month, as compared with $31,960,498 in January. The decrease was accounted for chiefly by a decline on cigarettes, which fell from $26,085,220 in January to $23,582,285 in February.

Oregon Treasurer Holds Up Pay Roll

Starts Vacation in Mexico and Orders Aids Not to Sign Warrants.

Salem, Oreg., March 22 (A.P.).—State pay rolls and all accounts drawn on the general fund of the State were tied up today as the treasury department refused to sign interest-bearing warrants and make them negotiable at banks. State Treasurer Rufus Holman was on his way to Mexico on a four weeks' vacation, having instructed his assistants before leaving that they were not to sign the warrants.

At Monday's meeting of the State board of control, Holman, Gov. Julius L. Meier and Secretary of State Hal E. Hoss agreed the financial affairs of the State were in such shape as to justify taking advantage of the recent legislative act permitting the State to go on a warrant basis.

At the close of business last night the total of outstanding unpaid warrants was $550,415.

Grand Jury Indicts 'Count' and Doctor

Chicago, March 22 (A.P.).—"Count" Enrique Dechow von Buelow and Dr. Valentine G. Burtan, of New York, were jointly charged with possession and intent to pass four $100 counterfeit bills by the Federal grand jury today. Both had been named in individual indictments before.

Arraigned before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward, Dr. Burtan pleaded not guilty and the case was continued to March 29 when it will be set for trial. Dechow, who has been held in the county jail for three months for failure to give bond, also pleaded not guilty.

Wealthy Indian Headed For His Fifth Divorce

Muskogee, Okla., March 22 (A.P.). The fifth marriage of Eastman Richards, second richest Creek Indian, is headed for the divorce court.

Richards was ordered today to pay Lometa Richards $5,000 when she sued for divorce and $75,000 alimony. His four previous wives each got $20,000 in settlements out of court. Only Jackson Barnett is rated richer than Richards among the Creeks.

She also asked a study of labor's relation to industrial reconstruction, the extent of shrinkage of capitalization in basic industries, provision for old age and prevention of child labor, and arrangements for employment exchanges.

In the field of developing higher standards she specified such subjects as accident prevention, compensation laws, sanitation, and methods of labor representation and settling disputes.

Among the American Federation of Labor officials invited, besides President Green, were: John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers; Frank Duffy, Indianapolis; T. A. Rickert, Chicago; Matthew Woll, John Coefield, G. N. Bugniazet and Frank Morrison, all of Washington; James Wilson, Cincinnati; Joseph N. Weber, New York, and Martin F. Ryan, Kansas City.

From other labor groups the following officials were among those asked to confer: A. F. Whitney, president of the Association of Railway Labor Executives; Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical Union; Rose Schneiderman, president National Women's Trade Union doubtless lies before the modification experiment in the not too distant future. But while history, politics and law run their timeles courses, that distressing American phenomenon which almost everybody recently has marked for a national howl, is quieted. For the moment—perhaps for a decade—a threatening political fever is assuaged.

"Well, I see the Vice President was so excited he blotted his signature," President Roosevelt remarked as the bill was placed before him by Stephen T. Early, one of the White House secretaries. All business for the instant, the President signed the measure in four starts and carefully blotted his inscriptions. Looking up, he faced the cameras with a characteristic broad smile.

"And I hope you get that smile at the end," he said jovially to the cameramen as he turned to greet the House delegations which witnessed the ceremony. There was no formal comment on the bill.

Two pens were used in writing the President's name and the other two in affixing the hour and date of the signing. Mr. Roosevelt directed that the pens be distributed, one to the American Federation of Labor and one to the American Legion, the two national organizations first most effectively in the modification arena. The remaining pair went to Representative Thomas H. Cullen, of Brooklyn, author of the bill, and Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, its sponsor and advocate in the Senate Finance Committee and on the floor.

Volstead Foes Present.

Final legislative action on the bill had been completed in the House Monday, when that body adopted the conference report. A few minutes after the Senate convened at noon yesterday, Speaker Garner affixed his signature. The bill immediately was started through the Committee on Enrolled Bills on its way to the White House.

Gayly bedecked in the customary red ribbons attaching the golden seal of congressional certification, the parchment was carried to the White House while the President still was at luncheon. He signed it within 5 minutes of its arrival.

Besides Representative Parsons, of Illinois, the chairman of the Committee on Enrolled Bills, the House delegation included Messrs. Sabath, of Illinois; O'Connor and Cullen, of New York, and McCormack, of Massachusetts. All are hailed on Capitol Hill as trail-blazers in uncompromising political opposition to the Volstead act. Representative O'Connor had pressed beer bills repeatedly in previous sessions and last spring had carried the fight to its first record vote in the House.

Pardon Question Studied.

Four hours before the modification bill came up from the Hill, President Roosevelt revealed to newspapermen that he had made informal inquiry of Attorney General Cummings concerning the status of Federal prisoners now serving sentences for beer convictions.

There was no indication the President had determined definitely either for or against executive clemency in such cases. The inquiry had been suggested, it was said in behalf of the President, by widespread newspaper discussion of the point.

Earlier in the day Representative Sabath had prepared a joint resolution authorizing the President to pardon all those now serving Federal jail sentences for beer convictions. Several similar resolutions are now before the Judiciary Committee. Action on any of them is problematical.

Although millions of barrels of legal beer were in storage in anticipation of the modification legislation, several months must pass before the rehabilitated brewing industry can make its complete contribution to business activity in the way of increased employment and a vast demand for materials and supplies.

All breweries and wineries are to be licensed by the Federal Government, which is to gather an anticipated $125,000,000 in direct annual revenue from the beer tax. Sponsors of the bill pointed to vast additional funds toward a balanced budget the expected impetus to business generally.

Regulations promulgated by David Burnet, commissioner of internal revenue, yesterday afternoon provided for the immediate removal under license of quantities of the new beverages for advance bottling.

Inspection of Breweries.

"The commissioner of industrial alcohol will assign inspectors to breweries for which there are granted permits to bottle fermented liquor," the announcement said. The inspectors will superintend the transfer of such liquor from the brewery premises for bottling by means of pipe lines or conduits."

The Federal tax is fixed at $5 a barrel for both beer and wine.

"Prior to the time the brewer begins bottling operations he must secure a permit from the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol, Treasury Department," the official announcement continued. "As permits are issued to brewers, collectors of internal revenue will be advised thereof by the local supervisor of permits, and no special tax stamps will be issued, nor remittance covering commodity tax accepted, until such advice has been received by the collector. In making application for a special tax stamp, the brewer shall notify the collector of internal revenue of his permit number. A brewer must take out his special tax stamp on or before the last day of the month in which he commences business."

Under existing local laws beer and wine may be sold after April 6 in fourteen States—Arizona, California, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Washington and Wisconsin. Pursuant to bills already approved by the State Legislature, West Virginia will join the ranks on May 9, Wyoming on May 18 and North Dakota on July 1.

In Maryland and Delaware, old local option laws still are operative, in the absence of concurrent State enforcement acts under the eighteenth amendment.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, was one of the first to publicly acclaim the action of the Seventy-third Congress and President Roosevelt in speeding enactment of the Democratic platform pledge on immediate beer pending repeal. President Roosevelt's 72-word message quoting the Chicago platform went to Congress only ten days ago.

Drys See Hard Task.

The precise legal formula to be followed in testing the constitutionality of the Cullen-Harrison bill has not yet been determined upon by the Antisaloon League, Mr. Dunford's statement said. He listed, however, six potential routes by which the matter may be brought into the courts.

"The beer act undertakes to nullify the prohibition amendment to the Constitution and was purposely drawn to make as difficult as possible a successful court attack," the statement said: * * * "An attack upon the law in the courts will certainly be made when the requisite circumstances arise."

Washington Man Heads Rail Group

A. R. A. Chooses Gormley to Be Successor of R. H. Aishton.

Chicago, March 22 (A.P.).—M. G. Gormley, of Washington, D. C., today was selected to succeed R. H. Aishton as president of the American Railway Association at a meeting of the organization's directorate. Gormley was formerly executive vice president of the association. Aishton was named chairman of the board of directors. Both take office April 1.

Attending the meeting were 23 members of the board of directors, operators of private cars on railroads and officials of industrial establishments which use their own cars in shipping their products. Discussion was confined to the matter of mileage allowances made by the railroads in private equipment.

Railroad relief measures awaiting congressional action will be discussed tomorrow at a meeting of the American Railway Executives Association, Gormley said.

None Seriously Hurt When Quantico Ship Tips Over in Landing.

Norfolk, Va., March 22 (A.P.).—Second Lieut. F. C. Bailey, piloting a Marine transport plane, and 13 passengers escaped serious injury today as the craft was badly damaged in landing at the Virginia Beach National Guard flying field.

Pilot Bailey, who had taken off earlier from the naval air station, hit a bump in landing at the Virginia Beach field and was taking off for a second landing when the left motor cut out and the big machine went over on its right wing.

The only injuries suffered by Pilot Bailey and others in the ship were cuts and bruises. The plane was from Quantico and had accompanied six other planes to this section for gunnery practice. The passengers, who were Marines, included several mechanics.

MARYLAND REPEAL PLANS UNDER WAY

Prince Georges Beer Bill Is Among First Offered Before Assembly.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 22.—Introduction of a joint resolution setting up the necessary machinery for a constitutional convention to ratify repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and action on the part of a number of county delegations to repeal or revise existing local option laws or otherwise provide for legalizing the sale of beer, now that the 3.2 per cent measure has been signed by President Roosevelt, featured today's session of the Maryland General Assembly.

Meanwhile, a State-wide beer bill prepared by Attorney General William Preston Lane, is about ready for presentation to the lawmakers. Prompt action on all liquor measures is anticipated.

It develops that Montgomery and Allegany are the only counties that did not have local option laws when national prohibition became effective more than 14 years ago. Local laws for other counties date many years back, and among the first to prepare for the return of beer was St. Marys, a bill by Delegate Philip Dorsey, providing for outright repeal of the prohibitive laws of that county, having already passed both Houses of the Assembly and placed before the governor for approval.

Harford Bill Offered.

A bill to legalize the sale of beer in Prince Georges County was among the first to be offered in the Assembly today. A beer bill for Harford County also was offered, and at least seven other counties are planning to follow suit, but a poll of the delegations revealed that most of the counties will wait to make a study of the State-wide measure, and either will fall in line with that, or prepare local measures.

The Prince Georges County bill provides for a complete revision of the existing county liquor laws, and would set up a board of beer commissioners consisting of three members, two of the majority and one the minority parties, and they would receive annual salaries of $200. The clerk to the county commissioners also would serve as clerk to the beer board under terms of the bill. Licenses would be issued in two classes. For hotels and restaurants and the like, for sale to be made on the premises, the fee would be $200 annually, while the license for sales in bulk or off the premises is fixed at $150. There is talk of decreasing the latter fee, however.

While placing these restrictions, the proposed law would permit breweries in the county. The bill is patterned along much the same line as the laws that formerly applied to Washington. Violation of the law would be punishable by a fine ranging from $50 to $200 or a prison term, or both, in the discretion of the court. Subsequent violation would result in revocation of license.

Resolution Offered Jointly

The resolution for the repeal convention was presented jointly in the Senate by Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer, Democrat, Prince Georges, majority floor leader; Melvin, of Anne Arundel, and Bouse, Baltimore City. The resolution includes the names of 29 persons, designated nominators, one from each of the 23 counties, and 6 from Baltimore city.

The nominators will select three tickets of three candidates each from the six congressional districts for a special election to be held throughout the State on September 12. The candidate groups will represent those for repeal, those against, and unpledged. The successful candidate will attend the ratification convention to be held in Annapolis, October 18, subject to call by Gov. Ritchie. The bill lists the name of J. Bond Smith, as nominator for Montgomery County, and George N. Palmer for Prince George's County.

The Montgomery County delegation through its chairman, Dr. George Edmunds, sponsored a bill authorizing the county commissioners to levy taxes from time to time for charitable and social welfare purposes.

Dr. Edmunds also presented a measure designed to minimize the garbage nuisance in Montgomery County, that is to prohibit outside parties from dumping trash within the county borders. Violation of the proposal would be punishable by a fine of from $25 to $50, or from 10 to 30 days in jail, or both.

Aviator Acquitted In Actress' Death

Jury Decides Plunge of Girl From Hotel Window Accident.

Houston, Tex., March 22 (A.P.).—H. M. Edwards, 37-year-old Nevada aviator, was acquitted today of murder charges in the death of his fiance, Miss Ivy Young, New York actress, in a plunge from his seventh-story hotel room February 19. The jury deliberated four hours.

When the verdict was returned, Edwards smiled for the first time since the hearing began Monday.

"The only thing I can say," he commented, "was that I was innocent and had two good lawyers."

The State contended Edwards either pushed or threw his fiance, who was registered in the hotel as his wife, from the window. The defense asserted Miss Young fell accidentally.

were Secretaries Dern, Wallace, Ickes and Frances Perkins.

One proposal considered was that of Secretary Wallace calling for an amendment to the Robinson-Wagner bill now before Congress which would extend authority of the "Civilian Conservation Corps" so as to make it possible to fight the gypsy moth menace on private property in New England and other East coast States.

At the suggestion of Secretary Dern, it was agreed that the Army would have a hand in organizing the housing facilities of the camps which are to be established in the forest preserves by selection of the United States Forestry Service. The Army officer who will have charge of this task is to be chosen in the near future, after President Roosevelt has given his approval to the plan being worked out by the four Secretaries.

Several other tentative proposals also were put forth by Miss Perkins, who will have charge of the jobless men.

elected to the speakership, asked the House to adjourn subject to his call, as it had been generally assumed that the election of Hermann Wilhelm Goering, prominent Nazi, as premier would take place tomorrow.

Those on the inside knew, however, that the premiership had not yet been settled. Chancellor Hitler apparently is willing to yield the place to Col. von Papen in recognition of the fact that it was Von Papen who won President von Hindenburg over to appointing him chancellor.

End of Republicanism.

Nazi members of the Diet, however, seem determined to claim the premiership for Capt. Goering. The political world is following this test of strength within the cabinet with considerable interest.

Tomorrow the chancellor will ask the Reichstag to approve an enabling act turning the government of the Reich over to the cabinet for four years and in effect putting an end to the Republican system by which Germany has been governed since the war.

The Nazis are strong enough to give this blanket power to Chancellor Hitler. Nevertheless, the government's official press department issued a stern warning to the political parties, especially the Centrists and Socialists, that if they fail to approve the grant of extraordinary power their action will be tantamount to a declaration of war.

HOUSE TO DEBATE BEER BILL FOR CITY BY SPECIAL RULE

limited to two on each side, with the same arrangement on amendments, he said.

A House fight impends today over failure of the bill specifically to forbid sales to minors. Representative Thomas L. Blanton, dry Texas Democrat, advised the House yesterday he will insist that this safeguard be placed in the bill.

Mrs. Norton, who holds such a provision would be an admission that 3.2 per cent beer is intoxicating, and lay the bill open to attack in the courts, will oppose its inclusion.

Backing her in her floor fight to pass the bill speedily with a minimum of amendments will be Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, who sponsored the measure last session, and Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, whose name the present bill bears.

Scale of District Fees.

Mrs. Norton points out that the bill as now drafted gives the Commissioners broad latitude to promulgate regulations governing conditions of sale. This clause, she said, offers the Commissioners all the power they need to stop sales to minors.

The bill, as reported by the committee, imposes a tax of $1 a barrel on "beer, lager beer, porter and other brewed or fermented beverages" sold within the 3.2 per cent limitation.

It proposes two types of licenses, "on sale" and "off sale." The former would cost $100 a year, and be granted only to bona fide restaurants, incorporated clubs or hotels, where beer may be consumed at public tables. "Off sale" permits would cost $50, and permit sale of beer in bulk, for consumption off the premises.

Leaders had hoped the bill might become law coincident with the national measure, and this was the intention of the committee, but, as reported, the measure contains a provision that would delay sale of beer in the District until fifteen days after passage of the District measure. This clause may be altered today.

Estimates of local revenues under the measure were unofficially estimated yesterday at $365,000 a year.

"Pending action by the States, Congress has enacted a measure providing for modification of the Volstead act, and the purpose of the bill herewith reported is to give citizens of the District the same rights and privileges as are accorded to citizens of the States by the National modification law," said Representative Palmisano in his report.

18 Apply for Licenses.

"It is certain that the profits at present garnered by illicit dealers in the beverages mentioned would be turned into the channels of legitimate business, and the District benefit to the extent of tax and license fees."

An application to sell beer was received by the District Commissioners yesterday from Lohse's, Twelfth and E streets, one-time popular saloon, but for the last 12 years a restaurant. The request for a license when beer is legalized was filed by Mrs. Martha Lohse, widow of the founder.

There are now 18 such applications on file with Daniel E. Garges, secretary to the board of commissioners, most of them from delicatessens.

GOERING MINIMIZES ANTI-SEMITIC RAIDS

Von Prittwitz Hands Phillips Dutch Interview With Hitler's Aid.

(Associated Press.)

Ambassador von Prittwitz of Germany handed to Undersecretary Phillips of the State Department yesterday a Dutch newspaper interview with Wilhelm Goering, Chancellor Hitler's aid, minimizing recent reports of attacks on Jews in Germany.

The German envoy's action followed a move by the American Government Tuesday night to secure from its embassy in Berlin official details of the reported anti-Jewish activity of the Hitlerites. A complaint had come to the department from Rabbi Stephen Wise.

The interview with Goering, published in an Amsterdam paper, said fifteen storm troopers of Hitler had been dismissed for acting on their own authority.

Goering, Hitler's minister without portfolio, added that he did not believe that much would be heard in the future concerning unlawful acts in Germany.

Boy, Mysteriously Wounded, May Die

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 22.—James Gray, 16, was probably fatally shot this afternoon while picking greens with three other youths in the county, and officers were trying to determine who fired the shot.

The youth was rushed to the hospital here, where physicians said the bullet appeared to have penetrated the left rear side and passed near the heart.

Companions of the boy said they were interrupted in their greens gathering near the Alonzo Taylor place along the Opequon by the voice of a man in hiding, asking them what they were doing. He ordered them out when they said they were picking greens. As they were leaving, with Gray at the rear, they heard a cry from Gray and found he had been shot. They carried him to a house some miles distant and the boy was rushed here.

Claudel, who is training for the Diplomatic Corps, said he and his bride would make their home in France.

sufficient influence in the league to halt or counteract a possible Italo-German bloc against them.

Increasing optimism over the possibility of an eventual accord was evident in French government circles. "We see a ray of sunshine," one government spokesman said.

Prime Minister MacDonald and Sir John Simon, his foreign secretary, returned to London today by air. Until the possibility of direct negotiations between M. Daladier and Signor Mussolini developed, it had been expected further discussions concerning the "peace club" would be carried on through the regular diplomatic channels.

The attempt of France to widen the scope of the accord, it was said here, is quieting the fears of Poland and of nations making up the Little Entente—Jugoslavia, Czechoslavia and Roumania. The French insist these lesser powers be treated as equals.

Premier Mussolini's conception of the "peace club" is that it should be a strong independent group unhindered by the unwieldiness of the League of Nations.

French leaders also contend the items in the Mussolini program establishing the right to revise the peace treaties and equality of Germany in the matter of armament require most careful examination.

Three Senators Will Study Plan of Redistribution of Tax Burden.

Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, chairman of the Senate District Committee, yesterday formally appointed a subcommittee of three senators to conduct an investigation of District finances with a view to redistribution of taxes.

Senator Warren R. Austin (Republican), Vermont, was named chairman of the subcommittee, as forecast yesterday in The Post. Senator King said the subcommittee "will go right to work" on a study of the Mapes tax bill defeated in the Senate last session.

Senator King appointed Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York, and Hamilton F. Kean (Democrat), New Jersey, to serve with Senator Austin on the new subcommittee.

"I want to work out a system of taxes here that will be fair to the people of the District," commented the Utah committee chairman.

HULL SEEKS DRAFT OF NEW ECONOMICS

the President declared after his meeting with the British Ambassador that conversations on the debts would be "conditioned upon and concurrent with" similar approaches to the economic problems of the moment. The United States will thus welcome any overtures from the British government either through the ambassador here or through the medium of the other representatives at one time expected from Great Britain for discussion of the problems connected with the war debts.

However, if the ambassador should take up with the United States the problems of the Anglo-American debt agreement, he could at the same time bring forward some British proposals for tariff agreements between the two countries. The two questions can thus be brought into the arena of discussion with mutual advantages to the two issues at stake as well as to the two governments concerned. The exploratory stage of the discussions is to achieve a proper amount of attention to the problems of the world depression without any specific agreement or understanding entered into on any one phase of the global problem, without similar understanding or agreement on other interrelated problems.

Similar tariff faculties have been in the past granted the President under certain restrictions. The Dingley tariff act of 1897 permitted the President to make tariff agreements by reducing the amount of the tariff on specified categories of commodities. The same act established a commission to proceed to make tariff agreements with such countries as France and on such products as wines and wine leaves, but the Aldrich tariff act killed these faculties. The plenipotentiary powers sought by Secretary Hull for the President would go far in creating a spirit of success for the conference.

Hopes for agreement between the United States and Great Britain immediately following the speech at Leeds of the British chancellor of the exchequer, Neville Chamberlain, were dashed by the attitude of the British financial officer in opposing any tariff quid pro quo with this country on war debts. However, the attitude of Secretary Hull while reaffirming in every way the position of the President toward tariffs and war debts will, nevertheless, permit the reopening of the conversations between Sir Ronald and the President on a broader basis and hence with more hope of compromise.

OHIO FLOOD MENACE GOES DOWNSTREAM

March 22 (A.P.). ...f the Ohio River ...n from here tonight, ...n localities up the ...took steps to combat the haz...ds that follow in the wake of high ...aters.

Possible collapse of flood-weakened buildings in areas where the waters retreated today was deemed by au...horities the greatest present danger, and warnings were given here and in several other cities to beware of such structures.

Precaution also was taken to pre...ent any epidemics of disease. In Dayton, Ky., across the river from Cincinnati, school children were given large doses of cod liver oil to increase their resistance.

Meanwhile, the flood waters ebbed away here and, although slowly, brought cheer to Cincinnati and to other communities more than 100 miles upstream. In that area the Ohio generally marked time, held back by the great volume of water that bogged in the tri-State area of Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana. From the latter district downstream the situation was one of increasing distress.

It will be another week, the Weather Bureau said, before the worst of the flood is felt in southern Indiana, Kentucky and Illinois.

As it retreated in the upstream area the Ohio and its tributaries snatched two more lives today. Near Portsmouth, Ohio, Louis Mitchell, 15, feared his skiff would sink in a turbulent creek and grabbed at a dangling wire. It was a power line and the shock killed him instantly.

At Zanesville, Ohio, Mrs. Caroline Heinle, 65, was found drowned in a backwater. These deaths put the known toll of the flood at 12 lives, in addition to unestimated damage to property.

Mrs. Dietz Admits Statement Untrue

Doug, Jr., Is Wonderful and Fine Character, She Declares.

Copenhagen, Denmark, March 22 (A.P.).—Officials of the newspaper Berlingske Tidende said today that Mrs. Lulu Dietz had admitted the incorrectness of a statement she made to them a few days ago to the effect that Douglas Fairbanks, jr., planned to go to Paris this summer, obtain a divorce from Joan Crawford and marry her.

Mrs. Dietz is the former wife of Jorgen Dietz, who has sued Fairbanks alleging alienation of affections.

"I had no idea about my former husband's suit against Mr. Fairbanks, and my first knowledge was gained through Danish papers," Mrs. Dietz was quoted. "I left Hollywood in July after I had obtained my divorce and this insane lawsuit thus started long after my departure. Mr. Fairbanks is a wonderful and fine character and I feel very sorry for him."

Patriotic Citizens Warned Gold Trinkets Not Needed

(Associated Press.)

A warning to patriotic persons that the Government has not called upon its citizens to send small amounts of gold trinkets and scrap gold to aid the Nation increase its gold supply was issued yesterday by the Treasury as gold withdrawn from banks during the panic of early March continued to roll into Federal Reserve banks.

The Treasury said that in response to misleading advertisements appearing in some newspapers, the New York Assay Office and mints in Denver, San Francisco and Philadelphia were being deluged with packages containing old gold trinkets and scrap gold.

The Government, the announcement said, buys such gold but only when the gold content of the articles amounts to at least $100. Packages containing less than that amount are returned to the sender.

When sent to the mints or assay office the jewelry and scrap gold must be sent at the cost and risk of the owner. If accepted, the Government pays for it by check drawn on the Treasurer of the United States, at the rate of $20.67 per ounce. The payment is made after the gold has been melted, assayed and nominal fees deducted. It also buys silver at the market price—now about 27 cents an ounce.

Fire-Plug Protest To Move Bus Stop

P.U.C. Orders Action After Firemen Say That They Were Blocked.

The Public Utilities Commission will move the bus stop on the east side of Eleventh street, just north of Pennsylvania avenue, that blocked firemen earlier in the week and aroused protests from police and fire officials, Vice Chairman Riley E. Elgen announced yesterday.

The bus stop is the only one in the city which encompasses a fire plug and was placed there early in 1931. Mr. Elgen said he was not aware that it blocked a fire plug. The bus stop will be moved 10 feet north of the plug. It is used by the Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Bus Co.

Several months ago the commission turned down a proposal to establish hack stands in front of fire plugs, after Fire Chief George S. Watson had voiced objections.

AUDIT DATA GIVEN AT TRIAL OF BALL

Newell Says Treasurer Was Accountable for $314,000 on June 30, 1930.

Over strong objections of defense counsel, the Commonwealth was permitted to proceed with the questioning of Elmer Newell, former member of the staff of State auditors, on the audit for the year beginning July 1, 1930, to July 1, 1931, and from July 1, 1931, to February 26, 1932, inclusive, in the second day of the trial of E. Wade Ball, former Arlington County, Va., treasurer, in Arlington Circuit Court yesterday.

Going into the audit in detail when questioned by Assistant Attorney General Collins Denny, jr., for the Commonwealth, Newell stated the audit was divided into three parts, as follows: One column shows sums received, another those disbursed, and the third the sum which should be on hand.

Defense Gains Point.

Newell testified that according to a previous audit which covered the fiscal year ended June 30, 1930, the treasurer was accountable to the county approximately $314,000. While it was claimed by the defense counsel that this was an arbitrary figure, counsel for the State claim that they will prove this was the amount for which the treasurer was accountable before taking into account certain adjustments.

The defense gained a point when the court overruled the motion of Prosecutor Denny to order State Tax Commissioner C. H. Morrisett to bring into court all State income tax returns for 1928, 1929, 1930 and 1931.

The case opened with Roy S. Braden, county manager, called to the stand. He testified there was a default in interest on school bonds early in 1932 and that following an investigation by the county board the governor was requested to send to the county the State auditor of public accounts. He also identified a statement said to show the financial condition as of January 1, 1932.

Defense Strongly Objects.

With the introduction of this report by the Commonwealth Frank L. Ball, counsel for the defendant, raised strong objections on the grounds that it was not signed. The motion was denied.

Mr. Ball then moved to exclude all testimony that the Commonwealth might offer on the ground that the indictment shows the defendant was not a public officer at the time he failed to turn over the alleged missing county funds to the clerk of the court. He further claimed that the indictment refers only to public officers.

Capt. Crandal Mackey, of the defense counsel, likewise stated all the indictment charegs is that Ball refused to obey the order of the court which the court had no right to enter.

Court adjourned with Newell still on the stand. Indications are that his testimony will consume at least the major part of today's proceedings.

Farmer Executed For Wife's Death

Ohioan Walks Unaided to Chair, Protesting His Innocence.

Columbus, Ohio, March 22 (A.P.).—Claiming innocence to the end, Herbert Meeker, young Ohio farmer, was electrocuted at Ohio Penitentiary tonight for the slaying of his wife, Gertrude. He entered the execution chamber unaided at 7:45 p. m., and died five minutes later.

Mrs. Meeker's body, nude and bruised, was found May 5, 1932, near Millersburg, Ohio. She had been beaten to death.

Meeker admitted he was present at the killing, but said the crime was committed by Howard Young, a relative. Young committed suicide when officers went to arrest him, only a few days after Mrs. Meeker's death. The three were residents of Holmes County.

The penalty may be either death or imprisonment for life. Superior Judge R. L. McCroskey set April 4 for a trial by jury to fix the punishment.

700 Miners Cease Their Hunger Siege

Polish Workers Send Men to Surface to Talk With Officials.

Warsaw, March 22 (A.P.).—More than 700 miners who have been on hunger strike since Saturday in mine shafts at Klimontow accepted food for the first time tonight when they learned that the government had promised to intervene in their behalf.

They refused to come to the surface, however, and instead delegated representatives to present their case to officials in Warsaw.

When the hunger strike started at the close of work Saturday the miners said they preferred to die underground than to starve to death slowly because of unemployment. Mine operators had announced plans to flood the shafts in which the men worked.

Stolen Safe's Recovery May Give Police Clew

Recovery of a stolen 900-pound safe may furnish a clew to the robbers who entered two Riverdale, Md., stores early this week and made off with more than $500 in cash an merchandise.

Early Monday the Sanitary Grocery Co. store there was entered and the safe, containing $476, was stolen. On Tuesday morning the Dixie Dyeing and Cleaning establishment on the Baltimore boulevard was robbed of five suits of clothes. Policeman Walter Acton, who is investigating the case, thinks the two robberies are connected.

The safe was thrown into the woods at the Manor Club, near Norbeck, by three men and a woman who were riding in a taxicab, Joe Lee, colored, who was working in the woods, observed their actions and notified Montgomery County police at Rockville, Md., who broadcast a lookout for the car.

BORAH BACKS ARMS CURB BY ROOSEVELT

Embargo Power to President Urged as Expedient for Peace.

(Associated Press.)

The influence of Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, still powerful in international affairs, although no longer chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was thrown yesterday behind the move to give President Roosevelt power to place embargoes on arms shipments in the interests of peace.

Mr. Borah issued a formal statement supporting the resolution now pending in the House Foreign Affairs Committee to give the Chief Executive authority to lay down arms embargoes in cooperation with other nations.

"The manner in which munitions and arms manufacturers, directly or indirectly, encourage trouble in international controversies can not be overestimated," Mr. Borah said. "They aggravate in different ways the situation and they should be restrained in every way possible."

Mr. Borah's statement follows in full:

"The embargo resolution now before the House committee is the same resolution which was unanimously reported out by the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate last session and which also passed the Senate. I think it rests upon a sound and wise policy.

"The manner in which munitions and arms manufacturers, directly or indirectly, encourage trouble in international controversies can not be overestimated. They aggravate in different ways the situation and they should be restrained in every way possible.

"I think the power given the President by the resolution is such power as may be given under the Constitution. I can not see that it transgresses the Constitution in any respect. The late Senator Walsh was of the same opinion.

"It can not be used, as has been said, to foment war or make trouble unless there is a deliberate desire to do so. Any reasonable use of it would be in the interest of peace."

Fifth Man Jailed In Ohio Kidnaping

Former Bookmaker Held in Connection With Myers Plot.

Youngstown, Ohio, March 22 (A.P.).—The fifth man to be taken into custody by officers investigating the kidnaping last Saturday of 15-year-old Peter Myers, jr., of Masury, Ohio, was arrested on a suspicion charge here late today.

City detectives said the arrest was made at the request of authorities of Trumbull County, in which Masury is located, and that the prisoner is a former horse race bookmaker.

Of the four men previously arrested two were released last night, and two still are held. One of them, police said, is suspected of having been connected with the attempted holdup of a Pittsburgh postoffice.

Studebaker Assets Seized by Sheriff

Attachment Served Taking In All Property in New York.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—All property in this city owned by the Studebaker Corporation, Inc., through its subsidiary, the Studebaker Sales Corporation, has been attached, it became known today. The sheriff's office, which issued the attachment, said the warrants were obtained by Albert J. Carey, whose address was not given. Attaches of the sheriff's office said, however, they understood he was acting as assignee for several banks which financed the Studebaker company, which is now in receivership.

Carey was reported at the sheriff's office to have filed suit against the Studebaker Corporation in supreme court several days ago for $754,403.53.

The attachment warrants, which were served yesterday, affect the stock of automobiles here, the company's showrooms, a factory and accounts in two banks.

Brawn and Brains Merge In Debate on War Debts

Quarter Back Gets Place on Quarter Deck as American University Team Closes in to Discuss Issue With Rutgers.

The football field and the forensic stage are far removed, but a quarter-back may have his place on the quarter-deck.

That athletes are "all brawn and no brains" is a premise which has lost standing at American University.

When American U.'s debating team meets the arguers of "dear old Rutgers" tomorrow night at Hurst Hall, on the American University campus, the theorem will be further shattered.

American University will be represented by Chet Bowers, football quarter-back; Oscar Sells, basketball center, and Robert Marcus, veteran debater.

The three will support the negative of the proposition, "Resolved, that the United States should agree to the cancellation of the interallied war debts."

The contest, which will begin at 8 p. m., will be judged by Harry L. Jones, Paul E. Shorb and J. Austin Stone, all Washington lawyers.

The same team will meet the team of Ohio Wesleyan University tomorrow night at the Chevy Chase School.

HOUSE PASSES FARM BILL; SENATE AMENDMENTS LOOM

man Smith, of the Senate Agriculture Committee, who said he was drafting a substitute bill which would be ready today. If his committee colleagues oppose his views, he added, he will not seek to block favorable committee action, but will try to change the bill when it is considered on the floor.

Charges of "Sovietism" and "Socialism" were hurled at the measure in the House yesterday.

"If the bill becomes law," said Claiborne (Democrat), Miss., "it will mean one thing—the next President will be a Republican."

Recommit Move Fails.

Others seemed to share this sentiment, and Representative Bierman, the Iowa Democrat who defeated Gilbert Haugen, famed sponsor of the equalization fee plan, said the bill was not "in accord with the Democratic platform on which we were elected."

Mr. Bierman tried to have it returned to the Agriculture Committee, which spent two days on the bill behind closed doors, but was defeated, 197 to 80.

"When it comes back from the Senate no man here will recognize this legislation," said Representative Woodruff (Republican), Michigan, expressing a view heard repeatedly as members assailed the procedure prohibiting amendments.

Representative Beck (Republican), Pennsylvania, charged unconstitutionality, but the other view was taken by Chairman Sumners, of the Judiciary Committee, who conceded, nevertheless, that the bill was "radical."

"The return of prosperity is dependent on the millions on the farms," Mr. Sumners said. "We are now in the midst of war psychology, and nothing will be so helpful to the country as to have it go out to the country this afternoon that Congress and the Executive are carrying on together."

Wadsworth "Staggered."

Representative Wadsworth (Republican), New York, former senator, said he was "staggered at the character of the bill."

"I visualize with difficulty," Wadsworth said, "the immense bureaucracy that will have to be set up in Washington with tenacles reaching, as a gentleman from Kansas said, into every backyard in the country to control its citizens."

His reference was to Guyer (Republican), Kansas, who had just said the bill "puts a policeman on every farm, an inspector at every crossroad, a Government agent in every backyard."

Lemke (Republican), North Dakota, voiced an opinion apparently shared by many farm representatives when in explaining his support of the bill, he said:

"Normally there are not enough Democrats in my State to fill the postoffices. But we gave Franklin D. Roosevelt a 160,000 majority over the great mistake then presiding over the Nation. We had confidence in Franklin D. Roosevelt; we still have confidence in Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Nine Commodities Included.

Even from some of the big metropolitan areas the farm plan gathered strong support. Only one man—Black—out of the big Tammany delegation from New York City voted against the bill.

Its actual provisions were discussed only casually. But the bill's chief content was a huge grant of power to President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace to be employed in boosting farm buying power.

Nine commodities were included: Wheat, cotton, tobacco, corn, rice hogs, cattle, sheep, milk and its products. Then the secretary was told to secure a higher purchasing power for these commodities by establishing a better balance between production and consumption.

To bring down production he would enter voluntary agreements with producers to slash acreage and lower production. In return for such curtailments, the producer would be paid direct benefits or rent on the withdrawn acreage.

These payments would come out of processing taxes levied on the commodities. The maximum tax allowed would be the difference between actual farm prices for a commodity and the price which would give that commodity its pre-war purchasing value.

When this purchasing value is reached normally through adjustments of supply and demand, this tax would be removed. But the Secretary may raise or lower it at any time to prevent shifts in consumption.

Better to insure success of the plan, the Secretary is granted broad powers to enter marketing agreements and to regulate, through a licensing system, the handling of the commodities in interstate commerce.

Added to the bill's general plan was the Smith cotton bill—given a pocket veto last session by President Hoover. It would pool all cotton on which the Government has loaned and then give growers options on shares of this cotton in return for agreements to cut acreage at least 20 per cent. The growers then would benefit by any increase in cotton prices.

Farm Mortgage Plan.

The farm mortgage program, expected with a new message from the President before the week-end, is being drafted into bill form by the Farm Board chairman, Henry Morgenthau, jr., and his aids.

Morgenthau expects to administer its provisions as head of the consolidated Federal farm credit agencies, soon to be assembled by executive order. Yesterday he conferred on the bill with Senator Robinson and members of the Senate Banking and Agriculture Committees.

It is not intended to employ a special bond issue in the refinancing, but rather to have the consolidated credit agency sell bonds in the manner that Federal Farm Land banks now obtain operating capital.

Pending in the House is a bill which would permit mortgage holders to trade their paper for Government bonds. These would be guaranteed by the mortgages held by the Government, which would be reissued at lower interest and amortization rates.

An integral part of the new legislation is expected to be a conciliation court system which, with the approval of creditors, would scale down the indebtedness of farmers unable to carry their present mortgage load.

Robert Worth Bingham, of Kentucky, President Roosevelt's choice for the major American diplomatic assignment, Ambassador to Great Britain, yesterday was confirmed by the Senate within a few hours after his nomination was approved by the Foreign Relation Committee.

Confirmation of the Louisville newspaper publisher came without discussion and by unanimous consent late in the day after Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, withdrew an objection that had blocked consideration a few hours earlier.

Borah Gives Consent.

McNary had objected to taking up the nomination in the absence of Senator Borah, of Idaho, ranking Republican member on the Foreign Relations Committee, which had held up action a week while it looked into some speeches made by Bingham in Scotland in 1927.

Later in the day, when Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, for the second time asked that Bingham's name be considered, McNary announced he had been advised Borah had no objection to Bingham and the Senate promptly confirmed him.

The Senate then waived its rule requiring that two days elapse before the President is notified, and agreed to inform Mr. Roosevelt immediately of the confirmation.

Held Misrepresented.

Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, who put before the committee last week press accounts of speeches made by Mr. Bingham in Scotland in 1927 which, he said, might indicate an attitude too friendly to England, withdrew any objection to him.

He explained to newspapermen he was satisfied that Mr. Bingham had been misrepresented in the press accounts in America which, he said, quoted Mr. Bingham as apologizing for America's actions at the Geneva arms conference and expressing great admiration for English institutions.

Senators Barkley and Logan, Kentucky Democrats, told the committee Mr. Bingham had been misrepresented, explaining it was the result of a Kentucky political fight, with Mr. Bingham's paper, the Louisville Courier-Journal, supporting one candidate, and an opposition paper another. They read from a cable from Mr. Bingham in 1927 denying the accounts published in the opposition paper.

"INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION folks are a pretty calm lot," said Charles Hall Johnston, in current issue of In-Com-Co. "They are not likely to surrender to disturbing rumors.

"If there are any Government employes who are in retreat, the President has pointed the way to an about-face position. As he has said, there is no failure of substance. This is true in Government employment. There is, and will be, no failure of substance. There is, and will be, work for those who have the ability to perform and the will to go ahead.

"There is, and will be, work to do. It must be done economically. Every dollar paid out by the Government must pay its proper return to the people who pay it. The sure way to make your job and your future secure is to do the best work of which you are capable, not following some reorganization plan in which you have a new opportunity, but right here and now.

"Commission employes are now, as always, doing a big job well and in this is their future secure."

MORE good names are entered for the Federal Diary jig-saw puzzle tournament one week from tonight at the Kennedy-Warren. Miss E. R. Norfolk, Philatelic Agency; William G. Rodgers, Navy Department; Louis V. Woulfe, Agriculture; Mrs. Christine G. Gordon, Navy Department; B. Townsend, Agriculture; William L. Rice, Agriculture, and P. J. Boiseau, Agriculture, are most recent entrants.

They say that while Rome was aflame Nero really was not fiddling, for fiddles had not been contrived then. He was working a jig-saw puzzle. So we have historical precedence.

Word comes that planting will be late this season, for farmers still have a number of those Jig-of-the-Week puzzles on hand they have not yet worked. Meanwhile, we are sawing wood—wood from which jig saws can be made.

The chief clerk's office, Commerce, is in receipt of the following letter from the United States Employment Service, Department of Labor:

"As a result of the recent circularization of the employes of your department, at the suggestion of our Mr. Aronoff, in behalf of the unemployed of the District of Columbia, we have received many calls resulting in placements, some permanent, of domestics, painters, carpenters, farmers, gardeners, laborers, &c.

"It is hard to estimate the good you have done. This letter is therefore written to thank you personally and through you to thank the entire personnel of your department; and, at the same time to ask that your people continue the good work so nobly started calling upon us if even a few hours' work can be found. While it may sometimes be impossible for this service to satisfy a request, this is indeed the exceptional case. Ask your employes also to tell their friends and neighbors in order that they, too, will call National 8303 when in need of personal services."

THE Department of Agriculture is holding its twentieth annual amaryllis exhibition at its greenhouses, Constitution avenue at Fourteenth street, daily, including Sunday, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

J. Wise Byrnes.

Refresh your spirit by a visit to this floral wonderland. J. Wise Byrnes, superintendent, is host. He is a large man, but he is just as gentle with people as he is gentle with his flowers.

It's one of the two big weeks of the year for the glass-covered plants. The other one comes in the fall, when the chrysanthemums "steal the show." From 35,000 to 40,000 people visit each of these displays and florists come from miles and miles to drink in beauty.

Whether or not you have a garden, you will find in this exhibition approximately 1,200 blooms to delight the eye. They range in color from dark red through shades of red and pink and striped types of pure white, forming literally a rainbow of color. These flaming amaryllis, this year, as in years past, are Washington's unfailing sign of spring.

These flower shows were originated by Edward M. Byrnes, father of the present greenhouse superintendent. Since 1926, the son has been a guardian of this flowery kingdom. Before he began service in the department he served five years at the Botanic Garden.

Sergt. Everly started out at once soliciting merchants, obtaining a mattress for the cot, bed clothing, fuel, food, clothing for the infant and other members of the family, enough for immediate needs. He states that any one wanting to contribute other aid can get the name and address from him. The Alexandria Children's Home and Day Nursery called police headquarters yesterday afternoon and stated clothing would be provided at once for the children.

The man of the family is without work and said he did not send for a doctor because he had nothing to pay and did not know about the city health physician.

KENSINGTON BACKS DRY LAW RETENTION

Chamber Meeting Also for Keeping Ban on Sunday Movies and Ball.

Resolutions opposing the bill pending in the Maryland Legislature legalizing paid admission to Sunday shows and ball games, and asking the retention of local option on liquors laws in Montgomery County were adopted by the Kensington Chamber of Commerce last night.

The association adopted an amendment to its by-laws, providing for the creation of a new committee on finance, and the following were named a committee: R. H. Green, J. W. Green, B. W. Kumler and Charles W. Lane. Another amendment was proposed, which would reduce the membership fees of the chamber from $3 to $2, and action on that amendment will be taken at the next meeting.

Aroused by the reports as to an alleged lewd performance recently at the armory in Kensington, the chamber authorized an investigation, and the following were named to investigate and make recommendations to the chamber: Harry Martin, Wilbur N. Baughman, E. W. Sheppard and Charles W. Lane.

It was reported that the county superintendent of schools had given representatives of the chamber assurance that needed repairs on the Kensington School building would be made.

Arlington Board Bars Large Signs

Realty Developers Denied Permit to Erect Advertisement.

The Board of Zoning Appeals for Arlington County has declared that every billboard or outside advertising sign more than four feet square violates the zoning ordinance.

Acting strictly in conformity with the zoning ordinance, the board has denied the appeal of James D. Hobbs and G. L. Price, developers of a new subdivision at Frazier and Mount Vernon avenue, Arlington Ridge, a permit to erect a sign advertising their property. The parties concerned had requested a permit to erect a sign 10 feet high and 15 feet in length.

In a letter denying the permit owing to requirements of the zoning ordinance, County Manager Roy S. Braden expressed the belief that the law was drastic and suggested that the appeal board recommend to the county board that the ordinance be amended to permit signs not more than 6 feet square on property advertised for sale.

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Mother: At last! Today my papers arrived signed. I can scarcely contain myself and feel that I am walking about the hotel on air. That means I will be through on Monday and taking the Overland myself. I have waited and dreamed about it so long that now it has happened, I can scarcely believe it. The first thing I did was to order my trunk up and start packing and ring for Daisy, who celebrated by catching all the old clothes I flung out of the closet. She says she might come East to work for me some time. Then of course I had to telephone Aileen and Seymour, who spread the good news all over the hotel. Even the elevator girl had learned about it and congratulated me as I went down.

Mr. Stevens was waiting in his office for my "dress rehearsal." This is done so the plaintiff will be prepared for the questions that will be asked her. My case is set for 10:40 Monday morning, and I must remember some time today to stop by the desk and tell Mr. Sadler, the hotel manager who is going to be my witness, to write that important engagement in his book. Sometimes he is resident witness for six or seven on one Monday and, since he gets $10 from each once, you can see that he reaps a neat little profit. My questions are all written down, and I suppose tomorrow will find me mumbling my answers in rehearsal all day. Clare gave me the typewritten slip and made me hear her about ten times. I will get Aileen to hear mine.

Today I am busy saying good-by. Just think, this will be my last letter from Reno! I am too excited for words. My trunk went off this morning. Of course, I will telephone you as soon as I get back to the hotel after it is all over. To think that I will be seeing you now in a few days!

Dearest love, ELIZABETH.

A New Yorker at Large

By MARK BARRON.

New York—George M. Cohan, taking one of his customary strolls along Fifth avenue, stopped in front of one of those luxurious, high price fruit shops that sell Peruvian pears and Australian apples during the seasons when, according to the laws of nature, they shouldn't be growing.

Cohan stepped inside and encountered what he thinks is one of the most candid and honest salesmen left on this island originally purchased for something like $17 worth of beads.

"How much are these pears?" asked Cohan, pointing to a basket of fruit nestling in a basket.

"Oh, I wouldn't buy those," protested the blase clerk. "I tried one this morning and they haven't much taste to them."

Yes—Bananas.

"Well, how much are these?" inquired Cohan, tapping a bunch of bananas.

"Those are $1.50 a dozen," the clerk informed him.

"What's the difference between these and the yellow ones you get for 30 cents a dozen over on Sixth avenue?" Cohan asked.

"I'll tell you," confided the clerk, "these red ones have a little more body. But, as for myself, I just as soon have the yellow ones on Sixth avenue. You gotta be an expert to tell the difference."

"Well," said the amazed George M. Cohan, "I'll take a dozen of the red ones, anyway."

"All right, if you insist," assented the clerk, "but I'm telling you you're just wasting your money."

When the clerk returned with his purchase, Cohan, his curiosity aroused, asked:

"Listen, young man. Do you make many sales? I mean—here I came in here in a mood to buy some fruit, but you did everything you could to persuade me not to. Does your boss know about your sales methods?"

Super-Salesmanship.

"No, he doesn't," answered the clerk. "But, I think this is the best way. For instance, if, when you came in I had started agreeing with you and trying to sell you everything in the shop, you would have just been a one-time customer to me.

"There may be times when I could flatter you or exaggerate to you and make my individual sales larger, but this way should give me more sales in the long run. Don't you think so?"

"Young man," Cohan admitted, "you're not as goofy as I thought you were when I first came in the store. You have my salute."

A SUBSTITUTE FARM PLAN.

It is significant that the House of Representatives passed the administration's farm relief bill yesterday after Henry Morgenthau, jr., new chairman of the Farm Board, estimated that the last experiment in agricultural price fixing cost taxpayers $350,000,000. Four years ago farm leaders were quite certain that the agricultural marketing act, permitting attempts at price stabilization, would be the salvation of agriculture. Now the Farm Board is in disrepute and both farmers and congressmen welcome a new experiment—with far greater possibilities of wasting taxpayers' money—quite oblivious of the appalling losses of the last adventure in farm relief.

The House accepted the measure in much the same spirit that actuated President Roosevelt in sending it to Congress. All members of Congress wish to do something for the farmer. They recognize that nothing can be done without the initiative and approval of the President. Hence, they fall in line to support another experiment, closing their eyes to its defects and hoping blindly for the best. Members of the House had no opportunity to amend the bill. A drastic rule forced them to accept or reject it in the form it was given at the White House.

Some congressmen vigorously objected to this practice of making the House a "rubber stamp." But the majority were content to vote for the bill, leaving the disagreeable task of perfecting the legislation to the Senate. They relied upon the President's statement that if the experiment did not produce the desired results he would advise Congress accordingly.

Prolonged debate is expected in the Senate. A number of substitute propositions have been offered. Senator Bulkley has a plan of taxing surplus crops out of existence. Even Chairman Smith, of the Senate agriculture committee, has announced his opposition to the administration's bill and is working on a substitute of his own. Senatorial debate will bristle with about 96 different plans for rescuing the farmer. There is a grave probability that two or three weeks will be consumed in mere talk and that the measure will finally be drowned in amendments.

President Roosevelt must be aware of this situation. In the face of such opposition it might be extremely dangerous to his prestige to try to drive the measure through in its present form. A compromise on a more simple and less revolutionary bill may be the way out. Senator Smith intimates that he has such a plan in mind.

If the administration bill were enacted by Congress the Department of Agriculture would have time to put only a small portion of it into effect for this year's crops. Agriculture can not be revolutionized in a day. What is needed is not a sweeping program to nationalize the farming industry, but emergency relief that can be quickly enacted and quickly applied.

Failure of all farm relief because of opposition in the Senate would be a blow to the entire country. Agriculture is prostrate. Rather than take chances on failure of his general program President Roosevelt may find it advisable to sidetrack the bill passed by the House and urge upon Congress the enactment of a simple emergency bill. If this movement to pass a substitute for the administration bill comes to a head in the Senate and is not supported by the White House, it can lead only to confusion and delay. The House might not accept a simplified plan without the approval of the President. Mr. Roosevelt may be called upon at an early date to lay aside the proposed experiment in favor of a more practical plan of immediate help for the farmer.

POLAND MAKES READY.

Poland was one of the war debtors to default on payment of the December installment, although a statement was issued simultaneously in Warsaw asserting that the country's finances were in good shape. Announcement is now made that Poland is making a new tariff effective on March 24, to last until October 11, under which the importation of certain classes of goods will be prohibited, except on special permission of the ministry of commerce. These permits will be granted only when compensatory purchases are made. American goods affected include leather, motor trucks, spare automobile parts, tires, typewriters and rubber goods. American exports to Poland have amounted to about $20,000,000 annually.

So it is evident that Poland is preparing to drive a sharp bargain with the United States, as well as with other countries when the time comes for holding the projected world economic conference.

It may be that Poland will insist upon cancellation of its debt as the price of admission of American goods into the Polish market.

Poland pleaded inability to pay its December installment, although it maintains an army of 350,000 men.

DISTRICT TAXES.

Once more a study of the fiscal relationship between the Government and the District of Columbia is to be made. Senator King, chairman of the Senate District committee, has appointed Senator Austin as head of a subcommittee to make a new study of that question. In view of his own fixed views on the subject, Senator King is to be commended for appointing another member of the committee to direct this inquiry. It is to be hoped that Senator Austin will conduct an impartial study of the situation.

As a basis for this study the subcommittee should have the results of the investigation conducted by the Bureau of Efficiency. This report is not yet complete, and it is feared that it can not be finished before the bureau expires on April 30. In that event a great deal of work and money would be lost. Congress would do well to make certain that this report will be completed and made available to the District committee. Extension of the life of the bureau until this work is done would be justified on the grounds of economy as well as justice to the District.

The Bureau of Efficiency is the only agency that has made an impartial study of the relationship between the District and the Federal Government in recent years. Most of the inquiries on Capitol Hill have been devoted to ways and means of imposing heavier burdens upon Washington residents for the sake of relieving Uncle Sam of the responsibility of maintaining a National Capital. With the extinction of the Bureau of Efficiency, a new scientific study of the problem can not be anticipated. By all means the data which it has assembled should be preserved.

Senator King's determination to revive some of the Mapes tax bills is not necessarily antagonistic to the interests of Washington people, if the tax revision is handled in the proper manner. It is the chairman's purpose in advancing these bills to equalize the tax burden. A District income tax and an estate tax, he says, should be used to reduce real estate taxes. If that purpose could be effected, there would be little objection by Washington citizens. But in the past tax revision has not worked out that way. New taxes have been proposed, but Congress has reduced its contribution to the District budget.

In any event new taxes should not be considered until the Federal contribution has been decided upon. If Congress makes a reasonable allowance for maintenance of the Federal City, adjustments in the tax burden could be made in a single bill. This is the only way in which the District could be assured that the new levies would not be used for the relief of the Federal Treasury at the expense of local taxpayers. The whole program of District taxation hinges upon the Federal contribution.

NEGLIGENT STATES.

Investigators for President Roosevelt are reported to be framing a bill to prevent the promoters of stocks and bonds from defrauding the public. This is a difficult field of legislation. While the advisers of the President are reported to be formulating a bill, it seems probable that the administration will take plenty of time to study the problem before definitely fixing its policy.

Senator Johnson attempted in the last session of Congress to create a governmental agency to control the sale of foreign bonds. Nothing came of it because Congress did not consider the plan feasible. If the Government attempted to pass upon the soundness of foreign bonds, or domestic securities, the Government would be held responsible, in public opinion, every time such securities depreciated in value. In the last analysis there is no way that the Government can guarantee the public against worthless investments, except by putting its credit behind those investments, and that plan would bankrupt the Government.

A great deal can be accomplished, however, toward protection of the public against fraud. Exorbitant commissions and profits can be exposed. Publicity can be required for all facts concerning new securities that are put on the market. But the problem of safeguarding the investments of the public is complicated, and it is not to be supposed that any panacea which would completely prevent the shearing of lambs can be evolved.

It is questionable how far the Federal Government should go in setting up restrictions and regulations of this kind. Protection of the public against shysters, racketeers and crooks is primarily the duty of the States. Why have the States failed to act? If there is any disposition on the part of the larger States to deal with this problem the administration might well go slow with its program until the legislatures have made their contributions. New York State could control the gyrations of Wall Street much more effectively than could the Federal Government, if it were disposed to do so.

GERMANY'S DAY OF FATE.

Germany's most important act since the revolution of 1918 will take place today. The coup de grace is to be given to the German republic and a new imperialistic regime under the domination of Chancellor Adolf Hitler is to begin. Germany turns a completely new page in her history while all Europe waits in ominous silence the outcome of the Nazi dictatorship.

"The spirit of Weimar is dead," exclaimed Hermann Wilhelm Goering, the new speaker of the Reichstag, in accepting that office. "The spirit of Potsdam, which stands for duty, discipline and work, lives." Germany has gone all the way from a rather loosely constructed republic to a ruthless dictatorship. For a long time the people resisted Hitlerism, clinging with a spirit of hopelessness to the freedom they found in the constitution of Weimar. But the depression drove them into the Hitler camp. Hitler's program was rash and fantastic, but it offered something definite for which his partisans could fight. With the spirit of the German people thoroughly aroused by hard times and continued national inequality in Europe, they turned to Hitlerism as the only positive and aggressive program for combatting their difficulties.

Now the fiery chancellor has Germany completely within his grasp. On the opening of the Reichstag his strength was beyond challenge. Communist members are not allowed to take their seats, thus leaving the Hitler supporters in a vast majority. They have plenty of votes to approve the Hitler program today. When the Reichstag adjourns it will doubtless have signed its own death warrant. Chancellor Hitler will have authority to rule Germany with an iron hand for four years. In that time the Nazi revolution will doubtless be complete and a new imperial government will have been set up. Whether the Hohenzollern family will be recalled to the throne is open to question. But the enthronement of a kaiser would probably not substantially alter the imperialistic regime upon which Germany has embarked. In either event dictatorship will be the law. When the German people have experienced the full bloom of Hitler's terrorism they may welcome the return of the kaiser or the accession of his son.

The one thing which seems certain is that the republic has been destroyed. Germany can not turn back. Having embraced Hitlerism the people will not be able to shake it off without a major upheaval. Presumably the Reich will remain under the control of the extreme nationalists for a considerable period. At present it appears that only another war can break their power. Brutal repression will be relied upon to crush all opposition within Germany until the new regime wrecks itself through a rash foreign policy.

Germany's revolution stirs the entire world. If Hitler carries out the policies he has been shouting from the house tops for several years a new European war may be expected. The best hope for Germany and its neighbors is that Hitler will be sobered by responsibility and the counsel of wiser heads.

Attorney General Cummings announces that he is proceeding with prosecution of Banker Mitchell with the approval of the President. Are not all laws executed with the approval of the President?

Instead of making April 7 a national holiday, why not wait and make a holiday of the day upon which the Supreme Court holds the beer bill constitutional?

Hitler warns political parties that if they oppose him he will exterminate them. President Roosevelt doesn't have to issue such warnings.

Dan Chaucer was a beer prophet, with his announcement that the showers of April would pierce the drought of March.

Babe Ruth capitulates for a measly $52,000, just as Jake Ruppert stands to make millions out of beer.

The House having passed the farm relief bill, the Senate will proceed to frame one.

White-collar relief at last!

SWANSON'S NAVY PROGRAM

From the Los Angeles Times.

Plans of Secretary of the Navy Swanson to gain the treaty ratio for the United States Navy, either by building up to the Treaty of London limits or by inducing other nations to reduce their strength, is apt to be generally approved. The plans involve no inconsistency with the position of the United States at any time in the past. The naval holiday was a guarantee of this Nation's good faith in seeking general disarmament, but the slowness of other nations to follow suit constitutes a new fact in the situation.

This new fact seems to require a change in policy. If it is true, as naval experts assert, that the Navy will be 135 vessels short by 1936 of the strength permitted by the London Treaty some method of equalization becomes highly desirable. Which method is to be adopted, as Secretary Swanson remarks, is a problem for the State Department.

Such action on our part, of course, constitutes no threat to any other nation and can not be construed as a preparation for war. It is a simple defensive measure. The United States Navy is the first line of defense of the United States, a nation with one of the longest coast lines in the world, and a necessity for keeping open the sea lines of communication between its coasts. A navy adequate to the defense of that coast line and of our commerce, in proper proportion to the other fleets of the world, is necessary in a world which can not yet rely upon treaties to maintain the peace.

Whether parity with the London ratios can be reached by the reduction method is a question to which positive answer can not be given, but it seems improbable that efforts in this direction will be successful. It would be the sensible and logical method, particularly in view of the dislocation of the world's economic system which makes naval expenditure burdensome upon everyone. The world, however, does not run on logical lines.

Costly as the Navy is, it is relatively cheap insurance, and this country can not afford to let its insurance lapse.

The Ins and Outs of Politics.

POST HASTE.

Germany appears to be just about as republican at heart as the present constitutional assembly on Capitol Hill.

The House adopts the agricultural bill intact under the old farm custom of whole hog or none.

Fruit juices are to be permitted the beer alky content, but that won't make an "orange blossom" out of orange juice.

A La Follette opinion on Russia ought to be fully as illuminating as an aurora-Borah-alis.

All the small towns can do for 30 days is to foam at the mouth until the breweries catch up with advance orders.

If Uncle Sam essays to protest the treatment of other than American citizens in Germany he risks a sharp retort from the brittle-tempered Hitler, advising him to mind his own business.

Soda fountain beer may soon be with us, but we refuse to inhale it through a straw.

Japan has one foot over the Great Wall, and is getting impatient because her toes have not been stepped on.

Puzzle: Find something sillier on Capitol Hill than an inquiry to determine whether Mr. Erickson knew before he resigned as governor that 5 minutes later he would be appointed senator.

"Beer curb urged by W. C. T. U." Do not get the idea that this means favoring curb service.

It seems to have been useful in banking circles; how would it do to suspend all forms of farming and only permit sound and efficient farmers to resume operations?

There will be little question of Mr. Mitchell's statement that he sold the stock to his wife at a low figure; interest will center on how he got it back.

Ambassador Daniels will entrain for the Aztec capital, but he promises to fly back whenever the Nation needs him.

If ex-Gov. La Follette went to Russia to see whether the Soviet would be acceptable to him as ambassador it would seem to be a good reason for his return to Wisconsin.

When do we start? Possibly a year in the woods will make us feel like boy scouts again.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

PRAYER FOR SEAFARING MEN.

For all who go to sea in ships,
I keep a prayer upon my lips.
God keep them safe and make them brave
And let them master wind and wave.
For ships however great they be
Seem small upon an angry sea.

For sailormen whose courses lie
Beyond the edge of sea and sky
Upon my lips a prayer I keep.
God strengthen them upon the deep.
For ships however large they be
Seem puny in a storm at sea.
Wisdom and courage Lord I pray,
Bestow on sailors day by day
And grant to all seafaring men
The joy of getting home again.
For ships however strong they be
Seem frail upon a storm-tossed sea.

House Is Equally Empty Whether Owners Are Dead or Merely Away on a Visit

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IF a man who destroys his life is insane, how intelligent is the man who throws away part of his life?

Consider the matter in this way. Life is the opposite of death. Sleep is called a form of death because it takes away awareness of life.

The tree and the hibernating bear have life, but man is truly alive only in the degree that he is conscious of living.

If that is true, the ordinary individual throws away much of his life. Only in rare moments is he keenly aware of himself and the world about him. His eyes behold innumerable things and he sees few or none of them; he hears much and is scarcely aware of hearing. He speaks and is scarcely conscious of what he is saying. He eats without tasting, smokes without desire and follows his accustomed routine without conscious effort. He is an automaton moving in a trance.

Why are we so seldom fully aware of the present moment? For the simple reason that our minds are occupied with the past or the future.

In other words, we fail to live in the present—throw away the only life we have—because of a past that is lost or a future we may not have. If that isn't throwing away life, what is it?

It is a folly for which we suffer endless punishment. The shames and failures and woes that cause our unhappiness are almost wholly in the past or the future. They are not real, but wholly imaginary.

If you are at this moment free of physical discomfort and no immediate danger threatens, of what do you complain? The past doesn't exist; the future doesn't exist. Nothing is real except the present moment of life—and you waste it in a trance or poison it with regrets and fears.

Life is always present tense. All else is imagination.

If wild creatures were as foolish as men, fearful memories and dread of dangers to come would make them easy prey.

But they live only in the present, without remorse or forebodings to burden their minds, and their reward is poise, dignity and contentment.

Man may have a superior mind, but it can't work for him now if it is busy with yesterday and tomorrow.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Get Needed Action Now!

Kansas City Times.

Continuance of the special session of Congress until the required emergency program was disposed of would be preferable to a recess and a reassembling of that body for a session that would last, perhaps, well into the summer. The former arrangement, which the President is said to favor, would be more certain to mean success in putting over the program that is needed.

Under the pressure of the crisis and of public sentiment, Congress has been prompt to respond to the President's leadership. The delay occasioned by a recess might mean a break in that procedure, postponement of urgently demanded action and consequent uneasiness on the part of the public.

New Deal Inevitable.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

A new deal is in store, not merely because a man named Roosevelt chanced to coin that phrase and then chanced to become President, but rather because the mechanism of industry and agriculture can not fully recover without fundamental readjustments. These readjustments are under way. Stagnant industries have meant in effect an enormous confiscation of wealth, a capital levy, as it were. Sagging price levels have caused a drastic rearrangement of the positions of creditor and debtor classes, of wage earners and propertied classes, all of which overlap in inextricable confusion.

Farm Relief a Baffling Problem.

Louis Post-Dispatch.

It is dangerous to be too oracular in the field of farm relief, and President Roosevelt knows it. He says frankly that he does not know how the new farm plan will work, but he advises Congress that if it does not work he will be the first to admit it.

This is a good start in a domain which has baffled human wisdom from the time of the Gracchi.

Things to Worry About.

New York Sun.

Can we go the limit or will "withdrawals" from the breweries be limited?

Magical.

Detroit News.

It's simply amazing, the hoarded votes our President has been able to shake out of Congress.

Ax-Man Roosevelt.

Detroit News.

Squarely face to face with cutting Federal running costs, new to the job and fresh for it, President Roosevelt took the position of the man with an ax who faces a woods which must be cleared out. It is an overgrown woods, a jungle. If to be cleared a fourth or an eighth, what to do but—us the ax?

The political pledge, to which Roosevelt and the Democrats stand committed, calls for a 25 per cent job. The past situation exhibits Congress full of brave ax-men for the years back who, though purporting to be swinging axes vigorously, haven't done enough cutting to make a respectable dent in the jungle.

For Efficiency.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

The business world, including the patrons of all lines of transportation and communication, doubtless will sense that the administration's plan for grouping Federal supervision of all such machinery under one bureau, and doing it without interference from Congress, is one of the best things that a Chief Executive ever did.

For weeks before the inauguration Mr. Roosevelt had Mr. Swagar Sherley, former Louisville Congressman and one of the Nation's best posted men on Government activities, at work on a plan of concentrating authority in the executive department, eliminating duplication, reducing costs, increasing efficiency and abolishing useless offices.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Control Production by Imposing Prohibitive Tax on Excess Production, Says Pennsylvania Farmer.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am a farmer with a profound respect for the economic law of supply and demand and with a regard for simplicity, brevity, efficiency and stability. I humbly offer the following as a substitute for the administration farm aid bill, in major effect as per following outline:

Article 1—Require the Secretary of Agriculture each year to estimate and divide, by percentage or in a fair manner, the agricultural acreage or production of each individual farmer or agricultural unit, as pertaining to basic farm commodities, into two groups, as follows: (1) Acreage or production required for necessary consumption; (2) acreage or production creating an excessive surplus.

Article 2—Impose a "prohibitive" special Federal tax on group 2 when producing, so heavy that the operation of same would plainly appear to be unprofitable; apply no special Federal tax whatever on group 1, or on group 2 when not producing.

I would like to comment upon one feature regarding the stability of the administration farm aid bill. This measure offers an "inducement" (made possible through a processing tax) to farmers to curtail production. I believe that this curtailment of production will tend to raise prices on farm products to the 1909-1914 prewar parity aimed at. However, as that goal is approached the processing tax will diminish and when that goal is attained, the processing tax will vanish. Right here I have two questions to ask.

(a) In the absence of a processing tax, how will it be possible or feasible to continue to offer "inducement" to farmers to control or prolong curtailment of production?

(b) In the absence of tangible inducement or restraint, will the average farmer or the majority of farmers voluntarily continue to control production?

I am going to hazard a guess that they will not. If they do not curtail now without inducement when operations are unprofitable, would they do so when "inducement" vanishes and operations are profitable?

What is the answer? Again, for a period, we would have disastrous overproduction with all its attendant misery and tragedy. It seems to me that the moral is, control production.

Prsident's Program Has Smoked Out "Liberals" Who Tried to Dictate Legislation to Favor Special Interests.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: To President Roosevelt the country owes a debt of gratitude, not merely for his leadership and program, but for the opportunity that program has afforded to smoke out the self-styled "liberals" in both houses of Congress. While "reactionary" Republicans were standing behind the President almost to a man, the "liberals" were opposing him at every turn. They are exhibited to the country today as a motley crew of sectionalists and demagogues.

The passing of the day when legislation can be dictated by organized blocs fills their petty souls with anguish. For years they have championed every privilege-seeking minority. They have appealed not only to avarice, but also to prejudice, particularly the provincial jealousy and hatred of New York and the rest of the East.

They would like to require the East to pay the losses incurred by banks officered by cattlemen, small town grocers and farmers, whose deposits have been used to finance local land booms. They oppose pension and salary cuts on the theory that "Wall street" will have to foot the bill anyway.

Of course, these "liberals" are just what they always have been, but they are better understood today.

Big Shrinkage in Estimates of Beer Revenue Since the Campaign.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In your editorial "Beer and the Budget" appears the statement, "The amount of internal revenue from beer is usually estimated at $150,000,000." As of the date of your editorial the statement is doubtless accurate.

Prior to November 8, 1932, it is probable that the average estimate of revenue from beer was approximately ten times your figure. The New York Post, with commendable conservatism, figured out a plausible estimate of $1,129,580,000. Irenee du Pont set the returns at $1,320,000,000. If my memory serves me, Mr. A. Mitchell Palmer put the figure considerably higher.

But, now, election being over, it seems to occasion no embarrassment to those in high places to drop down to about 10 cents on the dollar—probably a justified and constructive deflation of the pre-election pipe dreams and hokum which seem necessary in American campaigns.

Aye, election is over. It is now permissible and respectable to deal in facts. W. G. CALDERWOOD.

Culbertson on Bridge

THE LAW OF SYMMETRY.

The Law of Symmetry is a principle, the application of which to the bidding and play of a hand often solves the question of whether or not to take a finesse, not upon the basis of mathematical formula, but upon the fact that the distribution of the suits in one hand has a tendency to reproduce itself in other hands at the table. With hands of balanced patterns the remainders of the principal suits are likely to be balanced. With hands of unbalanced pattern, they are likely to be unbalanced. Thus, with a 5-4-3-1 distribution, the remainders of the five-card suit are probably 4-3-1 rather than 3-3-2 or 4-4-0, but with a 5-3-3-2 distribution, the remainders are more probably 3-3-2 than 4-3-1 or 5-3-0.

The modern game of Contract Bridge is not a crude affair of Aces and Kings. It is a game in which quality, as represented by Aces, Kings and other honors, struggles against mass formation, which is the distribution of the suits in the hand. The word "law," in this particular, is used in a broad sense. Strictly speaking, a law is a rule of action prescribed by some superior which the inferior is bound to obey. This, however, is a purely political definition of the word, but in physics the word "law" has two meanings. In one sense, a law of physics is something that can be predicted and this invariably occurs; thus, it is a law of physics that, if you combine two chemical substances, the result will be a new chemical substance. But there is another meaning to this phrase in a scientific sense, and that is that an event is likely to occur or that there is a tendency toward its recurrence.

Thus, the Law of Symmetry is a reasoning from the known to the unknown. Each player, even before the bidding has begun, knows the distribution of his own hand. He knows whether his hand is of a balanced pattern or unbalanced pattern, or goes to the extreme of freakishness. In the card world, the balanced patterns are:

4-4-3-2	5-3-3-2	6-3-2-2

The unbalanced patterns are:

4-4-4-1	5-5-2-1	6-4-2-1
5-4-3-1		7-3-2-1

The very unbalanced patterns include all freaks, such as the hands of a single suit containing thirteen spades, hearts, diamonds or clubs, those of the perfect two-suiter type and all others which are so unusual that the extraordinary has become the ordinary.

Mathematical probabilities have nothing to do with these hand patterns. In the balanced family, for instance, there is found the 5-3-3-2 distribution. In the unbalanced family, there is another hand, the 5-4-3-1. So far as the Law of Probabilities is concerned, any player is almost as likely to get one of these hands as the other. The fact that a hand is of unbalanced pattern does not mean that it is rare, but merely, so far as the application of the Law of Symmetry is concerned, that a player must expect to find a different distribution of the remainder of the suit than he should expect to find with hands of a balanced type. It will be noted that every hand of the unbalanced type listed above contains a singleton. On the other hand, the balanced family of Contract hands is stockily built. It lacks the element known to Bridge players as favorable distribution. Another characteristic of the balanced family of hands is that, except for the 4-4-3-2 distribution, it is of the one-suit type—that is, one suit of four cards or longer and three short suits. The unbalanced family is either of the semi-two-suiters, three-suiters, or two-suiters. In other words it generally has not only one long suit, but another long suit of equal, or nearly equal, length.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

Resisting Advice.

In ancient Rome it was customary to lay the new-born infant at the feet of its father. If he picked it up, the child was accepted and reared; if not, it was destroyed. This absolute right of the Roman father over the life and death of his children is still reflected in our laws which only slowly are yielding to modification in the interests of the child as an individual.

One of the greatest obstacles met by teachers, parent advisers, mental hygienists and psychoanalysts in their efforts to straighten out the difficulties of children is that of overcoming this "Roman" attitude on the part of parents—an attitude so deeply rooted in human nature that one doubts whether it will ever quite disappear.

The vast majority of parents, whether they know it or not, continue to regard their children as property and resent violently any intrusion which seems to lessen their hold over them. They resist the best advice, the most helpful plans for no other reason often than that these have come from an outside source.

They resent the suggestion that a stranger should know more than they about what is good for their children. Fathers especially tend to reject outside influence. Perhaps this is because on the whole they love their children somewhat less than do mothers, and are therefore less able to feel with them.

Every parent who seeks advice from experts on the education and training of his child may well submit his attitude to an inner scrutiny and try in advance to divest himself of that natural but unreasonable resistance to "outside influence" which will tend to make him reject the even wisest aid.

Meanderer Finds Blouses Both for Daughter and Matron.

FEATURES FOR WOMEN

The Meanderer

Writes of Blouses for Collegiate Daughter and Conservative Mother. More Men's Wear; and Dinnerware.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

"Mess jackets," the perky white pique, full-sleeved jackets that may be worn in jaunty fashion by the younger girls, are having great popularity. The Meanderer finds well-made "mess jackets" of pique and other acceptable materials for $1.95 in the basement shop of a leading F street store. There, too, are the extravagantly ruffled organdy styles appealing to the misses at $1.95 or less. Brown organdy and navy blue organdy with Ascot ties trimmed with narrow ruffles are worth recommending.

Matrons who would have none of the extravagant ruffles and puffed sleeves that please their daughters, will like at least two of the more conservative blouses the Meanderer found. One had long plain sleeves, though the blouse is not fairly called plain. It is trimmed with narrow insertion and tucks in a vest effect and on the long sleeve cuffs. The other blouse, void of extreme in line, has a graceful, wide scalloped collar in surplice closing. The two plainer blouses are also in the basement store just mentioned.

Many inquiries have come over the telephone to the Meanderer about the men's wear described the other day. Encouraged, she took more notes on men's wear. They concern raglan-sleeved sport sweaters for men, said to be a really new garment. Some of these sweaters are two-toned. They are all wool and cost just $2.95 in men's wear shops on F street and E street.

Now that china has sunk to such a low price level, every shopping tour shows the Meanderer additional values in dinner ware. Two acceptable patterns of 94 pieces, to serve 12, formerly selling for $47.50, now is marked $37.50 in a department store on Seventh street. Similar reductions—about $10 on a dinner set—have been made on many china patterns.

Dashing plaid knit scarfs or plaid silk scarfs, just like those the fashion magazines show as proper with spring costumes, are selling for 65 cents up in an F street store's basement shop.

Gifts for men were never arrayed more attractively than in a showcase of large proportions in a Fourteenth street store. There are the fine brushes, razors, toiletries and leather goods men always like to have and many other things men might like if they could see them in this impressive display. The Meanderer suggests that women who buy for men do not overlook this special showcase.

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF March 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:10 a. m. to 8:15 a. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 4:20 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 12:30 p. m. to 1:30 p. m.

Influences operating on this March 23 will induce clear and decisive thinking. Your thoughts will embrace a great multitude of subjects, and your reflections will carry you into the past. Do not tarry with regrets of past mistakes, but see these mistakes as beacons that will guide your conduct in the future.

The child born on this March 23 will in all probability go through life in a bold and fearless manner. He will not appear to be working toward any particular goal but his advances will be consistent and the result of careful planning and hard work. During his earlier years he will have quite possibly more than his share of youthful sicknesses.

If March 23 is the date of your birth you will accomplish little in this world unless you develop within yourself the trait of being orderly and systematic. You are too inclined to be haphazard and indefinite in all that you do. Being punctual is not one of your strong points. You have quite probably what might be called a "breezy" personality and your approach to life lacks seriousness. You barely scratch the surface of real living and the fundamentals are beyond your realm of thought. You must make yourself "come down to earth."

Born on March 23, you are a tender and understanding person; you are ever doing something for someone, cheering up this one and consoling another. Often your attentions are wasted on persons not worthy of them. You seek to be a little more discerning in the choice of your friends. You are a thoroughly amusing and enjoyable person to be with, for you allow yourself few cares or worries and those that are thrust upon you, you carry lightly. Neither the men nor the women generally care to assume responsibilities and for this reason they more likely than not marry late in life. They are, however, attractive to those of the opposite sex as well as attracted by them.

Successful people born on March 23:

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A huge collarette of black point d'esprit is a most lovely accompaniment to the hat of black picot trimmed with ruffs of the same point d'esprit. And a wee hat of printed organza in pastel and black, is matched with a scarf and mittens! (Models from Agnes, Paris.)

THIS is the kindest spring ever was for miladi's millinery! The kindest to her, that is. Because she can just about have whatever hat she wants and be stylish—with a few, oh, so few, style notes, that is. These are the shallow crown, of course, and the tipped-over-one-eye angle—if not over both.

The sailor in all its pertness is surely the most popular hat! I sketched one for you earlier in the week, and told you that almost every couturier showed at least one of these, in a favorite material—plaids, dots and checks the favorites, especially when matched with a blouse or scarf.

The hat matched with something is a prime favorite. Agnes shows some models and ideas that are simply ravishing to say the least—a dress model in black picot I have sketched for you today—with an accompanying and huge and flattering boa of point d'esprit—and tiny ruffs of the same point d'esprit at each side of the hat in just the right spot, of course. Agnes loves these ensemble ideas—another model of hers is sketched below, which is not content with a matching scarf, but must offer mittens as well—all three, the hat, scarf and mitts, in a pastel colored organza, printed in black.

Another famous modiste, Suzanne Talbot, offers a white pique hat in the clever and becoming postilion type, with a matching scarf and shirred gloves. This modiste is especially fond of the small evening hat, too.

And while I have told you of the small, flat flowers on spring hats, never think that feathers are out, either! Feathers worked into ribbon-like bands are particularly smart, especially when one side seems different in color and construction from the other—and the end is finished in a small wing. Quills are smart for sports hats, and coque feathers quite elegant and lovely for formal hats.

* * * *

A dozen or more things to do with organdy. That's what this week's illustrated leaflet tells you all about—and you will be delighted with the different collars, the gloves, cuffs, and oh, ever so many things you can do your very own self toward summer loveliness! And all without sewing a stitch! Well, hardly a stitch. At any rate, the cutting out and planning and the hemstitching are all there is to them—at least, half of them. Organdy being what it is in the summer mode, hadn't you better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this leaflet? You'll be delighted with it.

* * * *

That the old-fashioned straw braids are staging quite a revival is news. If you are clever—you can buy your hats by the yard—and make them up into real hats, all yourself. I for one am going to invade the attic again—where I know there are just hunks and hunks of odd hat braids—some already hats, some not.

* * * *

And the veil on the sailor! It falls below the shoulders, it is fine mesh and bordered, it is posed all around or only at the back. Somehow my heart just yearns toward veils—does yours?

* * * *

My, aren't we hatty today! But it's in the spring air, now isn't it? And I'll even make you a leaflet telling you how to make over all your old hats into new—see if I don't.

* * * *

Exotic straws, picot, lisers, baibunti, remaille leghorns—these are some of the new straws. Personally, I give up trying to figure them out, so why should you? A fine straw is a fine straw, and a chic and elegant thing as a rule—one that you just know is right, without worrying much about its name!

Au revoir!

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

TO my mind the thirties are really the crucial period in woman's beauty. In grandmother's time a woman was old at 30 or 35. Today, the modern woman is at her prime at that age; her loveliest, her "peppiest," she's vitally alive, interested in everything, poised—a "person." Or, she's blah, tired, dull, and considers herself no longer young. Moreover she looks just that.

A woman can get by without any beautifying measures until the time she is 25. That is, if she is a thoroughly healthy individual and can stand the rushing pace of modern living without showing the strain. After that she's wise to see the handwriting on the wall—two simple words: caution and prevention.

That proverbial ounce of prevention is worth at least 10 years of youth. For the woman of 30 who knows how to keep those signposts of age from her face and figure, makes up the morning of her fortieth birthday to find that she looks 25 again.

Simple Routine.

The routine is surprisingly simple. The complexion must be cleansed, toned and nourished daily to remain clean, soft, smooth, fine-pored. An oil or cream should be used around the eyes every day to prevent fine lines or the beginning of wrinkles. Ditto on the eyelids, for no matter how beautiful the eyes, a crepey lid doesn't belong to the teens or twenties. Nay, nor the thirties. Patting with a skin tonic or mild astringent every day and a tie-up a few times a week (for five minutes, no more) will do wonders in keeping the contour firm and the chin in single blessedness. The cream or oil and astringent for the neck, too, to keep those circular wrinkles from becoming permanent visitors. So much for the complexion.

A cream for the hands, because hands tell tales, you know, wrinkles or roughness do not belong to the picture of youth.

Exercise for the fingers, systematic daily exercise, the back roll and side to side roll, particularly, to avoid that middle-aged spread around the hips and thighs. Some girls of 20 have it and some women of 50 manage to shoo it off. So there you are!

Brushing and massage for the hair, for luster is the essense of hair health and loveliness. And a soft arrangement to flatter the features and frame the face.

Above all a happy outlook, a youthful enthusiasm in many things and a mature interest in at least one hobby. There, that's all that really accounts for the difference between "only 40" and "40 already," between the frump and the trim, the young and the old.

For wrinkles and a double chin, you'll want my bulletin "signs of age." Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

LEG CRAMPS.

ONE of the most frequent complaints registered by old people in winter is leg cramps. While it is regarded as an old people's winter complaint, it is encountered by many who do not regard themselves as senile. And some have it when the weather is not so very cold.

This form of cramps in the legs is a distant relation to intermittent claudication and Buerger's disease. In the more serious members of the family proper examination shows that the blood vessels below the knees are not carrying as much blood as the muscles require. In some cases this is because the vessels have very much thickened walls and the carrying capacity is reduced. In other cases there is a contraction of the muscles of the small vessel walls due to some vasomotor disturbance, and, by reason of this contraction, the vessels are incapable of carrying all the blood needed.

There are tests by which it can be decided whether the shortage of blood in a given case is due to one cause or to the other. It is not customary to make these tests in leg cramps. The disorder may be very uncomfortable and disturbing, but it is not advisable to take it too seriously. Were tests made they would doubtless show that in leg cramps an unsatisfactory amount of blood is flowing to the feet and legs. The muscles know that the well-known remedy for chilblains is shivering. Shivering is caused by muscular contraction. It burns up a lot of sugar and other stored material, makes a lot of heat, and then distributes it all over the body. Leg cramps is a cousin to shivering. In shivering the muscles rapidly alternate between contraction and relaxation. In leg cramps they contract and hold on.

When the feet get cold, especially in bed at night, the leg muscles decide to apply the shivering, or rather the cramp cure.

There is a multitude of leg cramp cures, each attested by the experience of honest people. As a rule, the simplest and best cure is to take precautions to keep the feet warm at night. This can be done by wearing flannelette pajamas and warm night socks. A good sleeping bag will do. There are pajamas made with a foot piece. Of course, patients have long recognized the advantages of such night wear for children. Adults subject to leg cramps at night will do well to adopt the children's style of night wear.

In many cases an extra blanket on the bed suffices. Sometimes it is advisable to sleep in a buttoned-in bed. The use of foot warmers, electric heating pads, hot bricks, hot-water bottles is advisable if we can be certain they will keep warm through the night.

When an attack wakes one relief generally comes on getting out of bed and standing or walking around a little.

BATH ITCH.

Mrs. J. P. writes: After bathing my skin becomes so dried up that it is scaly and itches so that it drives me nearly frantic. I take a tub bath about every two days. Can you tell me of a way to rid myself of this condition? I don't like oils on my body.

REPLY.

You have bath itch. You are fortunate if you can choose between oils and itch. You may have to choose abstinence from all bathing. Cold cream is something of a substitute. Some can take steam baths if no soap is used. Others can use fat soaps, but must avoid those that contain a good deal of lye. Some must avoid soaps made with vegetable fats. Some must limit themselves to bran water. There is no way of eating your cake and having it.

EXTREMITIES SWELL.

E. writes: What causes swelling of feet and hands? Is there a corrective diet for it? Does drinking coffee contribute to it?

REPLY.

There are many causes to choose from. Among them are heart disease, Bright's disease, cirrhosis of the liver, beriberi, varicose veins, milk leg, wearing tight garments, local acidosis, hot weather. Beriberi is the only one on the list that has any particular relation to diet and that is not much in the picture. Nor is hot weather just now. Coffee is not a factor.

Rally of Stocks Is Defeated After Stronger Resistance

Moderate Losses Recorded as Turnover Drops to 999,310 Shares.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Stocks failed to hold a midday rally today, but their afternoon dip found resistance much stronger than in the previous market, and final prices were mostly above the lows.

Net losses were moderate, running from fractions to a couple of points. A few industrial leaders finished higher and the market's average loss was six-tenths of a point, against 2.4 points on Tuesday.

The market's early upturn was encouraging to tape watchers who had been watching for support signs at levels that represented completion of a technical setback. At one time on this rise prices were fractions to a point higher, but subsequent offerings of rails had a depressing effect. The close, however, was on a mild recovery; nevertheless, utility stocks averaged into new low ground for the year.

American Telephone and Union Pacific were spongy all day, the former losing 2 and the latter 3, net. North American and Consolidated Gas, as well as Allied Chemical, Chesapeake & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville, Woolworth, Loew's, Sears Roebuck and corn products, were off a point or slightly more, while Santa Fe yielded 2. General Motors, United States Steel, Union Carbide and Bethlehem Steel firmed slightly. Alaska Juneau lifted a point in active dealings, and rallied at the close. Sales totaled 999,310 shares.

Shares of Public Service of New Jersey, which announced another prospective dividend reduction as well as further pay cuts, were steady. On the whole, the utility situation, as regards prospective rate changes and stricter regulation, seemed to be receiving less attention from market operations. The head of two large companies—Floyd L. Carlisle, chairman of Niagara-Hudson and Consolidated Gas—praised Gov. Lehman's proposals for prevention of abuses and expressed hope that the New York Legislature would enact "appropriate" measures to carry out the governor's views.

U. S. BONDS ADVANCE IN LOSING MARKETS

General List Sinks Again as Dull Trading Totals $10,299,000.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—A substantial recovery in United States Government securities failed to attract any noticeable following in the bond market today and prices generally continued irregularly lower.

Aside from the Federals, which were fairly active, trading was about as listless as that of yesterday. Sales totaled $10,299,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans dropped ½ point.

Many of the Treasury maturities and Liberty fourth 4¼s were quite lively at times, most of the buying being attributed to a renewal of institutional demands. Gains in this section ranged from 2-32ds of a point in the Liberty fourth 4¼s to 30-32ds in Treasury 4s. Reports that the Treasury's plans for a long-term refunding bond issue might involve only the short-term loans maturing this year apparently were responsible for some of the improvement in sentiment toward the Federals.

Although various foreign obligations rallied feebly, European political uncertainties remained as depressing factors in this department. French government 7s dropped 2¼ points, while the 7½s eased ¼ point. The Germans were mixed and the British slightly lower. Some bonds of Poland, Argentina, Brazil and Japan did better.

Domestic rails, after firming a bit, turned rather heavy. There was some nervousness regarding action on the carriers which may be taken by Washington. Losses of 1 to around 5 points were suffered by a number of transportation liens, including some of Allegany Corporation, Santa Fe, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Rock Island, Erie, Great Northern, Hudson & Manhattan, Illinois Central, Louisville & Arkansas, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Iron Mountain, Frisco, St. Louis Southwestern, Southern Pacific and Wabash.

A few of the utilities and industrials displayed some resistance, but the majority sagged. Loew's debenture 6s took a sudden turn for the worse by losing 6½ points. Bonds of Portland General Electric, American & Foreign Power, Shell Union Oil, American Metal, Armour & Co., and Western Union were soft. Gains of around a point were held by issues of Texas Corporation, Studebaker, Humble Oil and Interborough Rapid Transit.

Owners of Chilean Nitrate Fear Greater Restrictions

Santiago, Chile, March 22 (A.P.).—The financial tangle involving the huge nitrate industry became more of a puzzle today with the rights of the United States and other foreign interests in danger of greater restriction.

Finance Minister Gustavo Ross, who dissolved the great Cosach nitrate combine in January, and who last week abruptly eliminated the 60 pesos gold (about $3.60) per ton paid to bondholders, now plans a reduction of the share each foreign company holds in the industry. This is being chiefly aimed at the Guggenheim interests which control the industry in Chile.

The combine was dissolved on grounds that former President Carlos Ibanez exceeded his authority in permitting its organization, and that it had broken the laws. When the bondholders' payment was banned, Finance Minister Ross reestablished the oldtime export duty, first paid in 1897, as a means of helping balance the budget.

While an official statement is lacking, it was reported in congressional circles that a message from Senor Ross will outline a new financial set-up, cutting the producers' share basis on grounds that it is too high and that "too much water was poured in when Cosach was formed."

Senor Ross is on record as previously favoring cuts. The situation is so tangled that the interests temporarily are stumped, awaiting action of foreign governments on protests against the repudiation of the bond service. It is expected Washington, London and other governments will act this week.

United States Ambassador William S. Culbertson already has presented a written statement of the case to the foreign office, including protests of producers, and now awaits word from Secretary of State Hull.

The repudiation of the service, together with the new moves, puts about $76,000,000 worth of bonds in jeopardy.

When the Cosach combine was formed, bonds issued were: Prior secured bonds, sold for cash by an English syndicate, National City Bank and others, totaling $31,924,000; bonds issued for consideration other than cash to the Guggenheims and other firms, totaling $16,536,000; secured bonds issued to various companies, $27,475,000. Grand total, $75,935,000.

In addition to this sum, the government of Chile has received $40,-149,000 from the industry.

Other United States interests in Chile, with combined assets totaling $800,000,000, are watching the Cosach negotiations with misgivings. The Cosach combine is a $350,000,000 concern.

Dollar Again Leads Foreign Exchange

Pound and Franc Drop After Rallies; Mark Up 10 Points.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Foreign exchanges attempted a rally against the American dollar today, but most of them finally traded early gains for small losses.

The French franc, after recovering nearly a point of its recent sharp reaction, slipped back to a cable rate of 3.92½ cents for a net loss of ⅛ of a point. The British pound sterling, from a high of $3.43¼ for cables, dropped to $3.42, off ⅜ of a cent. The Belgian belga sagged 3 points to 13.93 cents; the Italian lire was off 1 point at 5.14½ cents and the Canadian dollar eased off ⅜ of a cent to 83 cents.

At the same time, the German mark appeared to respond to the ministrations of the Reichsbank, gaining 10 points to 23.90 cents. Dutch guilders, Spanish pesetas and some of the Scandinavians were moderately firmer. Shanghai taels and Mexican pesos were slightly lower.

Exports of Grain Up 127,000 Bushels

Cargoes for Week Total 441,000 Units; Under 1932 Period.

(Associated Press.)

Grain exports last week from the United States amounted to 441,000 bushels against 314,000 bushels the previous week and 890,000 bushels during the corresponding week of last year. Commerce Department figures yesterday gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those of the week before.

Wheat, 1,000 bushels against 51,000 the previous week; barley, 289,000 against 122,000; corn, 121,000 against 71,000; oats, 30,000 against 70,000. No exports of rye were reported for either week.

Canadian grains exported last week from United States ports amounted to 324,000 bushels against 183,000 bushels the previous week while exports of North American wheat flour were 75,000 barrels against 33,000 barrels.

Exchange Seat Sells for More.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership at $111,000 was announced today. The price is $6,000 above the last transaction.

CURB'S RALLY TRIMS DAY'S TOTAL LOSSES

Professional Trading Marks Lighter Sales Volume of 130,000 Shares.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—The curb market continued to travel the path of reaction today, with leading issues losing moderately in most groups. But trading was light and largely professional, sales amounting to 130,000 shares, against 170,000 yesterday.

After a soggy forenoon the market braced up and recovered some part of the early losses, but the rally proved to have little vigor, and the trend was again downward near the close. Final prices were a shade above the lowest in some groups.

Talk of lower rates encouraged further selling in utilities, some of which widened previous losses to the extent of 1 to 3 points. Electric Bond & Share preferred, Pennsylvania Water, American Superpower first preferred, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore and New England Power preferred yielded from 2 to 3 points. Electric Bond & Share common rallied about a point from its extreme low, closing off only ⅛ net, and American Gas & Electric recovered to close a shade higher.

It took little actual selling to effect sharp losses in some instances in industrial and specialty groups, due to a scarcity of bids near the market. Great Atlantic & Pacific dropped 4 points and Chesebrough Manufacturing 3. Aluminum of America absorbed offerings fairly well and sagged fractionally. Stutz Motors slid off 2 points and Sherwin Williams Co. lost a point.

Evidently reflecting a renewal of professional activity, several of the gold mining stocks became active at rising prices. Lake Shore was a strong feature, gaining nearly 2 points.

WHEAT VALUES FALL ON LACK OF BUYERS

Most of Recent Gain Agricultural Bill Gets Traders' Blame.

Chicago, March 22 (A.P.).—Staggered by almost complete disappearance of purchase orders, wheat fell today to more than 6 cents a bushel under its recent high point. The decline has wiped out virtually three-quarters of the gain which wheat values had scored after resumption of business following the end of the bank holiday period. Attention of traders centered on the administration agricultural bill at Washington, and news about every other subject was nearly ignored.

Wheat closed weak, at the day's bottom level, 1 to 1½ cents under yesterday's finish; corn, ¼ to ½ down; oats, a shade to ¼ off, and provisions unchanged to 20 cents lower.

Leading trade authorities said the radical character of the farm bill had frightened all kinds of wheat buyers, both as to immediate and future deliveries.

Dearth of Buying.

Throughout the day, dearth of buying rather than any unusual pressure to sell dominated the wheat pit. Unsettlement of securities contributed a little at times to wheat weakness, and so too, did late advices of heavy snowfalls in western parts of domestic winter wheat territory where drought has prevailed, but received scant notice compared with certainty of House passage of the farm bill this afternoon.

One of the largest grain corporations in Chicago issued a statement that under the farm bill, if enacted, the basic price of wheat would be more or less on an absolute export parity, and that at present the most potent factor determining the value of wheat was the price in foreign markets. The statement added that at the prevailing rates of exchange, May wheat prices at Winnipeg, Liverpool and Buenos Aires were much below Chicago, and that it was not believed this disparity would persist.

In some quarters, it was asserted that a part of increased demand for flour of late had come from householders, who were laying in supplies before the processing tax proposed by the farm bill could take effect. Estimates by mills were that this tax would be equal to about $2.25 a barrel on flour.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat weakness. Provisions were responsive to declines of hog values and of grains.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON TRADE'S BUYING

May Sells at 6.26 With General Market Up 2 to 8 Points.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—The decline in cotton was checked today when trade buying reappeared at the levels prevailing before the market closed on March 3, and about 77 to 95 points under the highs of last Thursday.

Pressure of liquidation was less active, despite easiness of stocks and grains, and fluctuations were confined to a rather narrow range. May contracts fluctuated between 6.20 and 6.30, closing at 6.26, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 2 to 8 points.

The opening was 6 to 10 points higher in sympathy with relatively steady Liverpool cables and on buying by brokers with cooperative connections, trade houses and the continent.

Wire Houses Sell.

Selling appeared to come principally from wire houses and local interests, but pressure from the South was relatively light. The early advance attracted offerings from Liverpool as well as a renewal of liquidation influenced partly by heaviness in the early stock market. Trade price fixing for both domestic and continental account broadened somewhat on a moderate reaction from early level and the market displayed a rather steady undertone during the remainder of the session with fluctuations for the day confined to a range of 7 to 11 points.

March contracts sold off from 6.25 to 6.18 and October from 6.66 to 6.55, with final prices up about 3 to 7 points from the lowest.

Spot houses reported that foreign and dometsic trade interests were buying contracts and purchases of spot cotton from the continent were also reported in the South.

Liverpool cables reported that the market there had declined under overnight New York and Bombay selling as well as outside liquidation with off-take limited. Manchester reported more Eastern inquiry and fair business from South America, but with offers low. Exports today 27,527 making 6,041,985 so far this season. Port receipts 11,966. U. S. port stocks, 4,421,891.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was easy today under renewed liquidation and scattered selling, promoted by the weakness of lard, grains and stocks. Final prices were 9 to 13 points net lower. Sales were 74 contracts, including exchanges of 62 lots from May to September at 40 points difference. Bleachable spot closed 3.80; March, 3.80; May, 3.89; July, 4.02; September, 4.20.

GOODS MARKET.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Print cloths were inactive today on a basis of 3¼ cents for 38½-inch 64 by 60s. Finished cottons sold in moderate quantities. More interest is developing in some lines of women's wear for quick use. Burlaps were firm for spot delivery. Rayon yarns were slightly more active.

STEEL PRODUCTION CUT TO 14 PER CENT

Cleveland District Increases Operation; Confidence Brightens Future.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Iron Age said today that the steel industry and its customers were still feeling the effects of the bank crisis and that ingot production had declined this week to 14 per cent of capacity compared with a shade under 15 per cent a week ago.

The only increase in operations was at Cleveland, where one steel plant that had been idle resumed operations on automobile orders. There were declines at Pittsburgh, Chicago and other important producing districts.

"While the exuberance that immediately followed the reopening of banks and exchange markets has evaporated with the sober realization of all that remains to be done to restore a normal flow of business," said the review, "a strong and widespread feeling of confidence exists. This is especially in evidence among steel producers, who, knowing the length of time required to start the wheels of industry moving after a severe breakdown, have been modest in their expectations of nearby improvement.

"However, the steel industry looks for visible gains beginning this week or next, despite the fact that two of its principal outlets, building construction and the railroads, do not offer immediate prospects for important tonnage."

Recent sales of pig iron, the publication said, have been the heaviest in months, especially in eastern Pennsylvania, where prices have risen 50 cents to $1 a ton. There have been gains in sales and inquiries at Chicago and Cleveland.

DEPARTING AND NEW TREASURERS

OFFICIALS ADVANCED IN SECURITY & TRUST

Trust Company Board Elects Dulin and Schooley to Treasury Posts.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Three official changes at American Security & Trust Co. were announced yesterday following a meeting of the board of directors of that institution.

The request of Charles E. Howe, associated with the company for 42 years, that he be retired as its treasurer, effective April 1, was granted by the directorate, which expressed great appreciation for his faithful service. Mr. Howe has been in ill health for two years.

James C. Dulin, jr., an assistant treasurer of the company, has been elected treasurer to succeed Mr. Howe, and William E. Schooley was elected an assistant treasurer, in charge of the securities department. Both appointments will become effective April 1.

Records of Success.

Mr. Howe has been associated with and active in many organizations in the city for a number of years. In April, 1928, he was presented with the Silver Cross of the Order of the Redeemer of the Republic of Greece for services performed during the World War when he was treasurer of the fund for the relief of the fatherless children of Greece.

Mr. Dulin entered the employ of the company in June, 1909, as a runner in the trust department. He was later transferred to the securities department of the banking department, and served as teller and tax specialist until he was elected an assistant secretary on January 1, 1921. On January 1, 1922, he was elected an assistant treasurer, at which time he was placed in charge of the securities and foreign exchange department.

He was graduated from Georgetown University Law School in 1913, with the degree of LL.B. and in the same year admitted to membership in the District of Columbia Bar Association. He has been active in the affairs of the Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, having served as its president in 1923 and for three years has been instructor in investments on the faculty of the chapter. He was elected to membership in the Washington Stock Exchange in September, 1932.

Mr. Schooley came to the company June 27, 1917, as a file clerk in the banking department. He was later transferred to the securities and tax department, which department he will head after April 1, this year. He completed his course of law at Georgetown University, receiving his degree of LL.B, in 1923, and was admitted to the District of Columbia Bar the same year. He is a member of the Washington Board of Trade.

Clayton Is Reelected.

Charles W. Clayton, secretary of the F. P. May Hardware Co., of this city, and one of the outstanding figures in Washington credit circles, has been reelected to his eighth successive term as president of the adjustment bureau of the Washington Credit Men's Association, Inc., at a special trustees' meeting.

Lister T. Watts, credit executive of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and a former director of the National Association of Credit Men, was reelected as vice president. Waldo J. Tastet, official and director of Fries, Beall & Sharp Co., was reappointed as treasurer of the bureau, and A. L. Birch was named secretary-manager. Mr. Birch, formerly a Washingtonian, has been in the New York headquarters of the National Association of Credit Men for the last four years.

The adjustment bureau's trustees include E. A. Brown, Charles W. Clayton, A. R. Glass, R. M. Harper, Louis M. Hewlett, George W. Huguely, G. H. Markward, C. H. Pope, John A. Reilly, Waldo J. Tastet, Lister T. Watts and F. W. White.

DIRECT LIVE STOCK BUYING IS GAINING

Commission Men See Practice Doubled in Late Years.

Chicago, March 22 (A.P.).—Direct buying of live stock by meat packers and independent butchers has cut deeply into the profits of commission men, Charles A. Ewing, of Decatur, Ill., president of the National Live Stock Marketing Association, said today at a meeting of the association's board of directors.

The amount of live stock now marketed directly had almost doubled in recent years, he said. The value of central markets as determining factors in pricemaking has been impaired by the decentralizing effect of hard roads, trucks and increased freight rates.

P. O. Wilson, manager of the association, which is composed of 24 member agencies, reported an increase of 15 per cent in volume of business handled in 1932 as compared with the previous year, and a decrease in sales value of 46 per cent.

New York Central Car Loadings Increased

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—New York Central's freight loadings for last week totaled 70,694 cars compared with 59,199 in the week ended March 11 when traffic was curtailed by the bank holiday.

VETERAN OF MELODY REVEALS OLD SPIRIT

Paderewski's Performance Can Be Summed Up in Word—"Master."

By ELISABETH E. POE.

Ignace Jan Paderewski, the world's premier and best-beloved pianist, in an all-Chopin program at Constitution Hall yesterday afternoon in a concert for the benefit of the Nation's unemployed, repaid in ample measure the aid and sympathy given to Poland in World War days.

Paderewski, guest of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, appeared under Mrs. Roosevelt's sponsorship. Washington's socially notable turned out to do him homage.

The combination of Poland's greatest musical soul of today and the works of Chopin, often called the "supreme poet of the piano," produced a concert which will remain memorable in annals of musical Washington.

So rapt was the audience, which filled the hall, that it was only when the piano was removed from the stage after several encores, at the conclusion of the program, that those present remembered dinner engagements and left reluctantly, but with a golden glow about their hearts from the music they had heard.

Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by friends, was foremost in the applause. She clapped her hands with characteristic vigor which Washington has come to associate with her. It was evident that she was familiar with the great Chopin numbers Paderewski was playing in a comprehensive program of his countryman's immortal compositions. It was not hard to imagine that the wraith of Chopin, were it present, must have been thoroughly satisfied not only by the performing of his works, but appreciation shown of them.

The old spirit is still with this veteran of melody. There was no cessation of the supreme quality about his playing, the same surety, the same velvety touch, the same singing tone, all were there. Perhaps the mood was more mellow than of yore, the fires of youth had become a little dimmed, the dynamics, which had charmed thousands, were not so apparent, yet one could feel they still existed in what might be called an "elder statesman" of the piano.

To say words of praise is but to gild the lily. Perhaps it can be summed in one word, "Master." For other poets of the piano may come to bless us in years to be, other Polish patriots will play, with undying love, the matchless melodies of Poland's matchless composer, but there will be no second Paderewski. Only once in the lifetime of a nation can such an interpreter come of the soul of a nation's greatest music master.

Au revoir! Paderewski! Warm with love and thanks, indeed, are the hearts that wait for your coming again!

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

A FEW hours after the announcement here of the booking of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's production of "Gabriel Over the White House" for Loew's Palace Theater the week of March 31, with Walter Huston, Karen Morley and Franchot Tone heading the cast, comes a long night letter from Oscar Doob, director of adertising and publicity for Loew's, Inc., corroborating the date and proclaiming that despite news dispatches implying that the picture had been either banned or delayed it will be given a simultaneous "world premiere" in 40 Loew theaters a week from tomorrow.

In the meantime, it will be screened privately—more or less—for the ladies and gentlemen (sic) of the dramatic desks today at noon. So, perhaps, more of this trumpeting business later.

On the same "mail" with Mr. Doob's westernunionnightletter came one from Maestro Alfredo Salmaggi, reading approximately as follows:

"Nino Martini, celebrated operatic tenor, engaged by the Chicago Opera Company by special permission of the Columbia Broadcasting System for a gala performance of 'Rigoletto' at the Belasco Theater April 16. The cast will include other world celebrated artists. Please advise Washington music lovers of same."

So now you know.

Recollections of what yesterday's column was supposed to say before the petulant demands of a "tight" makeup rendered it necessary to scissor the substance out of divers and sundry paragraphs: Since she played a similar part in M-G-M's "Washington Masquerade," with Lionel Barrymore, "Gabriel Over the White House" will further establish Karen Morley as the official exponent of what Washington young women are like . . . Franchot Tone, I am afraid, hasn't been seen locally since "The House of Connelly," at the National . . . Patterson McNutt's heralding of the cast of Rachel Crothers' "When Ladies Meet," coming to the National April 3, was construed as "glad tidings" because Selena Royle, as you must know, is the daughter of Edwin Milton Royle, noted playwright, who fashioned "The Squaw Man" so perfectly to the measure of William Faversham—now grown old—who recently participated so handsomely in Daniel Frohman's Actors' Fund Benefit at the Belasco; Spring Byington, a Denverite, was popular in Midwest stock before gaining Broadway's eye in "Beggars on Horseback;" after mastering such ceremonies as there were about the place for many weeks at the Palace, Herbert Rawlinson needs no introduction to Washington audiences and Walter Abel, cast in a light comedy role, will vastly astonish those who remember him only for the tragic neuroticism of his portrayal of the role of Orin Mannon in Eugene O'Neill's marathon trilogy, "Mourning Becomes Electra" . . . Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians, coming to the Earle on April 28, first played the Metropolitan because the Crandall management was tipped off to them by Guy Wonders, then managing director of the Rivoli Theater in Baltimore . . . Mr. Wonders is now in charge of stage bookings at the Earle . . . You will have to trace the course of the law of cause and effect—if any—in actual operation for yourself . . . R. S. V. P. invitations are out for a swanky evening at Loew's Fox tomorrow, March 24, at 8:30 o'clock, for the vaudeville debut of Grace Moore, conservatively hailed as "America's greatest opera star" . . . Ross Ponselle graduated from vaudeville to grand opera . . . Miss Moore now reverses the procedure . . . Probably all part of the precedent-shattering "new deal!"

When George M. Cohan comes to the National next Monday night—as he most certainly will—in his own play of "Pigeons and People," Washington will have its first opportunity to see him in a one-act drama, presented without intermission, in which he is continuously on stage for 1 hour and 50 minutes. During that time Mr. Cohan plays the piano, sings and executes one of the agile dances for which he was famous 'way back in the old days of The Four Cohans in vaudeville, when he was the best dancer on the stage, among the men, just as his sister Josephine was the best among the distaff devotees of Terpsichore.

In the supporting cast surrounding Broadway's First Citizen will be seen such favorites as Walter Gilbert, Olive Reeves-Smith, Edward Nannery, Paul McGrath, Reynolds Denniston, Alney Alba, Eleanor Audrey, Janet Rathbun, Lucille Sears, Arvid Paulson and Howard Hull Gibson.

Felian Garzia, well-known Washington pianist, will appear as soloist with the National Symphony Orchestra, Hans Kindler, conductor, in Constitution Hall this afternoon at 4:45 o'clock. He will play Cesar Franck's "Symphonic Variations," for piano and orchestra, on a program that will also include Mozart's Symphony in G Minor, Sibelius' symphonic poem, "En Saga," and waltzes from "Rosenkavalier," by Richard Strauss.

The line of march of the big parade of screen attractions for the ensuing week in the downtown first-run sector will be as follows, barring last minute accidents, changes of mind and acts of God: RKO-Keith's, Fay Wray and Robert Armstrong, in "King Kong;" Metropolitan, Fredric March, Claudette Colbert and Elissa Landi, in "The Sign of the Cross," at popular prices; Loew's Fox, Alison Skipworth, Roland Young and Sari Maritza in "A Lady's Profession," and Grace Moore making her vaudeville debut on the stage; Earle, Kay Francis and George Brent, in "Keyhole," and "Singin' Sam" headlining the vaudeville bill in person; Palace, George Raft and Sylvia Sidney in "Pick Up;" Rialto, Charlie Murray, George Sidney and Maureen O'Sullivan in "The Cohens and Kellys in Trouble;" Columbia, George O'Brien and Nell O'Day in "Smoke Lightning."

GRAND JURY WORKS ON BOETTCHER CASE

Indictments Sought Against Six and Two Others Being Hunted in Kidnaping.

Denver, March 22 (A.P.).—A Federal grand jury investigation was begun today into the $60,000 ransom kidnaping of Charles Boettcher 2d, Denver broker.

Indictments against six persons, including two women, charged with kidnaping and holding young Boettcher nearly 17 days in a South Dakota ranch house to collect the ransom, are sought by Federal authorities.

Two of those charged, Verne Sankey and Gordon Elkhorn, are being hunted as the actual abductors. Those held in jail are Carl W. Pearce, Burlington, Colo., insurance agent; Arthur Youngberg, of Chamberlain, S. Dak.; Mrs. Verne Sankey, wife of the fugitive, and Mrs. Ruth Kohler.

Among the witnesses called were Boettcher, his father, Claude K. Boettcher, multi-millionaire; Dean Benjamin D. Dagwell, rector of a fashionable Denver church; J. A. Dowd and Val Zimmerman of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and many policemen and detectives.

NORTH CHINA PLANS CHARGED TO JAPAN

Geneva Chinese Say Full Invasion Data Found on Dead Officer.

Geneva, March 22 (U.P.).—Charges that official Japanese plans for an invasion of China below the Great Wall had been discovered were made today by the Chinese delegation to the League of Nations.

The Chinese declared that the Japanese war office scheme was to invade the regions around Peiping and Tientsin, in north China, and eventually to proceed as far south as Tsinan, capital of Shantung Province.

The Japanese held Shantung during and after the World War, having taken it from Germany as a war prize. However, they gave it up under the terms of the nine-power treaty signed at the Washington conference in 1921-22.

The delegation said the plans worked out in detail had been found on a slain Japanese artillery officer and turned over to Gen. Sung Cheh-Yuan, a commander in the Jehol campaign. Gen. Sung reported the purported discovery to Peiping, and the Chinese authorities advised the delegation to make the announcement here, they said.

RUTH ACCEPTS CONTRACT FOR ONE YEAR AT $52,000

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

THE tennis world awoke the other morning to learn that Ellsworth Vines, the 21-year-old American champion, had turned two very emphatic thumbs down on the proposal to stage an open championship between the amateurs and professionals of the Nation.

"I positively will not compete in the open championships sanctioned by the American Lawn Tennis Association," remarked the youthful Mr. Vines. He is quoted further as follows:

"I believe that such competition would completely change the objective and ambition of all amateur tennis champions—would encourage them to win amateur championships not for the glory and honor of American tennis and tradition as they do now, but to selfishly develop themselves as drawing cards for professional matches. In other words, they would be thinking and planning to make money out of tennis."

Mr. Vines Leaves Self Out on Limb.

Mr. Vines seems to have left himself rather far out on the limb in the above statement. Coming from a young man who a few hours before had just stepped off the boat from Australia, where, accompanied by Mrs. Vines, he had a free three-month sojourn on an expense account that would make the incomes of many professionals look like small change, Mr. Vines' remarks are just a bit incongruous.

This department wonders if it required three months in Australia at the expense of the tennis fans for Mr. Vines to achieve further glory and tradition for American tennis. Australia as a Davis Cup threat faded several years ago, and one brief afternoon should suffice Mr. Vines to establish further the name and the fame of American tennis, as far as the Anzacs are concerned.

Yet Vines traveled throughout the Antipodes, knocking over set-ups each week-end for three months, living indirectly off the gate receipts that he is now invoking as an argument against the open tournament, which he contends would change the objective and ambition of all amateur champions—all except Mr. Vines, apparently, whose amateur spirit is so amat ur as to be disgusting.

Pepper Loses His Sting.

Fame is fleeting in its flight. Ask Pepper Martin. Or perhaps you don't remember Pepper. Or perhaps you do remember him as Philadelphia's Public Enemy No. 1 in the world series of 1931 when Pepper was with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Pepper is still with the Cardinals, but less than 18 months after he had the baseball public at his feet, Pepper doesn't know whether he's a regular member of the Cardinal cast or not. Or whether he's an infielder or an outfielder.

Pepper didn't go so well last year. He couldn't hold a regular job in the Cardinal outfield, so he switched to the infield. As an infielder he was a fair outfielder, and back he went to the outfield, where he managed to hold on to a reserve berth. This year he's bouncing back and forth between the outfield, short stop and third base at the Cards' camp at Sarasota. The guy the A's couldn't get out is just another ball player these days.

G. W. Five Schedules St. John's and C.C.N.Y.

Two of the best collegiate basket ball teams in the East—City College, of New York, and St. John's, of Brooklyn—have been scheduled by the George Washington five for the coming season. The games will be played in New York December 30 and in Brooklyn January 12, respectively, with these two aggregations due to appear in Washington the following season.

Potomac and A. G. O. Bow In Upsets

Brookland Boys Win by 29-26; Mercury Triumphs, 59-30.

Als Girls and French A. C. Five Advance in Post Tourney.

TWO upsets marked play last night in the District A. A. U. basket ball championship tournament being sponsored by The Post at the Tech High gymnasium, and saw the elimination of two seeded teams in the 145 pound class. First, the Potomac Boat Club, with a collection of scholastic stars, succumbed to the fighting Brookland Boys' Club, 29-26, and second, the War Department A. G. O. five, winner of the 145-pound title last year, fell before the lightning attack of the Mercury A. C. team, 59-30.

In other games, the French A. C. defeated the Fraternal Order of Eagles, 28-16, to gain the 130-pound semifinals, while the Als A. C. girls went to the senior finals as the result of a 25-20 victory over the Satellites, previous winners in the tournament being sponsored by The Post at the Tech High gymnasium.

The Brookland-Potomac game was a nip-and-tuck battle all the way with first one team and then the other in front. At the half, the Potomac led by a 12-11 margin. In the second half, the expected spurt of the Potomacs, who had in their line-up Finneran, Essenstad, Breen and Fitzgerald, all prominent scholastic players, failed to materialize, as Cotter and Hurley found the basket for the Boys Club. They finished the game with 9 points each.

Mercury started with a rush, which swept A. G. O. before it, and the Southwest team was never to be headed, scoring 27 field goals and 5 fouls for one of the largest scores of the tournament. Taylor, Fitzgerald and Walter dropped in six baskets each during the contest. At the half Mercury was leading, 38 to 7.

French Given Hard Battle.

The French A. C. had a real battle on its hands to reach the semifinals of the 130-pound class at the expense of the Fraternal Eagles. French's gained a 15-8 lead in the first half, but the Eagles pressed them throughout the second half. Hoffburg, French's guard, and Hoy, Eagles' guard, shared the chief scoring honors with four field goals each.

The Als A. C. sextet, prominent in girls' basket ball for years, presented a fast-passing attack, which featured Miss Jones on the scoring end, to eliminate the Satellites. Miss Jones accounted for ten field goals from an assortment of angles. The Als led at halftime, 12-6, and maintained a wide margin to the finish despite the brilliant play of the Satallites. The victory gave the Als a place in the senior girls' finals.

South Bend, Ind., March 22 (A.P.).—Billy Sullivan, youthful White Sox star, today, threatened to retire from baseball if he has to sign a contract as a catcher.

"I played baseball because I like it, and because it pays good money," he said today between classes at Notre Dame, where he is studying law, "but Manager Fonseca wants me to catch and I don't like to catch. They also want to cut my salary from $10,000 to $6,000. I think I can make more in law and finance. I returned my contract, asking for a clause saying I will not have to catch."

Sullivan, son of the famous old White Sox catcher, is rated as one of the real natural young stars of baseball. He joined the White Sox after his term at Notre Dame was over last June and starred from the first day on, batting .316 and fielding .990 in the outfield, behind the plate, at first and third base.

He has passed he Indiana law examinations and will be admitted to the bar April 3.

Bolton Hits Homer, 3 On, As Nats Beat Atlanta, 9-4

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 22.—Two old reformed major league pitchers—Bob Hasty, a former Mack, and Lefty Hearn, a former Brave—suffered 13 serious indignities from the bats of a revamped Washington ball team here this afternoon and the two old boys, rounding out their pitching careers in a ten, twent', thirt' circuit, morosely watched their team, the Atlanta Crackers, crumble for a 9 to 4 loss. Cliff Bolton, Nats' catcher, provided the offensive feature, driving a homer with the bases loaded.

The Crackers were pretty limp today, and the phenomena can be traced not only to the salt air, but to the fact Walter Stewart, of whom you are going to hear and see a lot this coming warm spell, and the venerable Al Crowder unhitched a pretty decent assortment of these and thoses out on the mound for Washington.

The new Nat left-hander was most parsimonious with hits during the first four innings, allowing but two inconsequential bingles. In the fifth he tapered off slightly, tolerated three hits and saw two runs dribble across. Crowder permitted a dignified little uprising on the part of the bushers in the eighth, but it only amounted to two more runs.

Bluege Shifted to Seventh.

Shortly before the game, Joe Cronin announced that he had changed his mind about Ossie Bluege's hitting in second place. He dropped Ossie down to seventh, which pushed everybody up a notch, boosting Heinie Manush up into a spot he can handle better than any man in baseball today—the old deuce spot. Heinie came through beautifully in his first appearance there. Buddy Myer had walked to start the first inning for Washington. Heinie drove one swell single so sharply over the head of Second Baseman Whitey Dashiel—the erstwhile Nat—that Dashiel could hardly raise a glove before the ball had passed him. Myer was on third, in what the boys used to call a jiffy. Joe Cronin rammed him home after Goose had struck out ponderously.

The Washingtons scored twice in the second. None other than Ossie Bluege contributed the deciding blow of the frame, a double to left. It was the third inning, however, that saw the big punch exhibited, and four runs scuttled across the mangy home plate. Goslin—who is in one of those slumps which should be written all in capital letters, started the big push by striking out. Joe Cronin, a recent convert from slumpism, doubled—to right field by the way—Big Schulte lined to Sington, but Kuhel beat out a hit.

Bolton Slams Homer, Bases Loaded.

Bluege singled his second hit of the game, and then bottle-legged little Cliffy Bolten came up, dragged that telegraph pole he uses for a bat, and after sniffing haughtily at a couple of random strikes and balls offered by Mister Hearn busted one on the nose that would have knocked the stars and stripes off Old Glory at Griffith Stadium's center field. An easy home run.

Buddy Myer gave Bob Hasty a rude reception, when the old fat nemesis took the mound in the fourth by tripling to right. Manush's long fly to center scored him. Washington scored its other run in the

Yankees Favored At 3 to 5 in Odds; Nats Rated 8 to 5

ST. LOUIS, March 22 (U.P.).—The New York Yankees and the Pittsburgh Pirates are favorites to meet in the 1933 world series, according to "winter book" odds announced today by Tom Kearney, betting commissioner.

The Yankees are overwhelming favorites at 3 to 5 in the American League, while the Pirates, facing stiffer opposition in the National, are quoted at 2 to 1.

The Washington Nationals and the Philadelphia Athletics are picked for second and third place in the American League.

"The Yankees," Kearney said, in commenting on the book odds, "have too much power in every department to rate anything but overwhelming favorites.

"The Nationals and Athletics have changed their line-ups so much during the winter by trades that their strength is problematical. The rest of the American League field doesn't even look dangerous.

Metcalfe Again Beats Toppino at 60 Yards

Hamilton, Ontario, March 22 (U.P.).—Ralph Metcalfe, of Marquette University, tonight dispelled any lingering doubts as to his supremacy over Emmett Toppino when he registered his third victory of the indoor season over the New Orleans torpedo in the 60-yard dash of the Highlanders track and field meet.

With a magnificent last 10-yard spurt, the colored Midwestern runner nosed out Toppino at the tape to equal the world record of 06.1 seconds. Toppino finished second, more than a foot ahead of Bert Pearson, Hamilton school boy and Canadian Olympic runner. The time established a new Canadian indoor record.

Frankie Frisch Leaves For Cardinals' Camp

Macks Boast Plenty of Power

Simmons, Dykes and Haas May Not Be Badly Missed.

Line-Up Combines Experience, Youth and Speed.

THE first game of the 1932 world series was over, and the baseball writers, typewriters in hand, trudged wearily into headquarters.

"Connie Mack," came the announcement, "has sold Al Simmons, Mule Haas and Jimmy Dykes to the White Sox for $100,000."

To a man they set their machines down. Through every mind ran the same thought, came the same memory, of the White Elephants of 1910, 1911, 1913 and 1914, of the sale of Chief Bender, Eddie Plank and Jack Coombs as a start in the dissolution of one of the greatest baseball organizations of all time.

Opinions were unanimous.

1933 A's May Be as Good As in Past.

"Connie Mack is breaking up another great championship team."

It has taken most of the winter to break down that first opinion and realize that the Philadelphia Athletics today may be potentially as strong as the championship A's of 1929, 1930 and 1931.

It won't look the same at all, with the mighty Simmons gone from his knockout spot in the line-up, with the peppery Jimmy Dykes out of the infield and the vetefan strategists, Eddie Collins and Kid Gleason gone from Connie Mack's side on the bench. Gleason died during the winter and the Red Sox took Collins as their new front office manager.

The Athletic line-up this year combines of youth, power and experience. The chances naturally appear most strikingly in the outfield, where three young men who may some day make Philadelphia forget even the clouting prowess of Al Simmons, are roaming wild and free.

Coleman, Cramer Good Batters.

Coleman, until he broke a leg last season, was hitting an even .342 and had ousted the veteran Bing Miller; Cramer had taken Haas' job in center and was hitting .341 when he fractured a collar bone; Finney piled up a .348 average with Portland, that led all the hitters in the coast circuit. Connie has produced another sensational youngster, also from the A's farm team in Portland, in Frank Higgins, a big rangy fellow, who can hit and field. Higgins hit .327 with Portland last season, and among his clouts were 33 home runs.

Eric McNair, developed similarly by Mack, proved an outstanding shortstop last year. Max Bishop is still a fine second baseman, a crack lead-off man. There is no better first baseman than 25-year-old, apple-cheeked Jimmie Foxx, .364 hitter, who may surpass Babe Ruth's home run record this year. Jimmy hit 58 last season.

Lefty Grove, George Earnshaw and Rube Walberg are still the pitching "big three" of the majors and this season they will have added support from little Tony Freitas, a southpaw who won ten straight after reporting late last summer; Leroy Mahaffey, constantly threatening to become a star; burly Gowell Claset, southpaw from Montreal in the International League; Jim Peterson, former Pennsylvania husky, and Merritt Cain, of Baltimore.

Mickey Cochrane may no longer be the greatest catcher in baseball, a title now claimed for Bill Dickey, of the Yankees, but he still rates second place. Ed Madjeski, a hard-hitting youngster, will spell him when necessary.

POST MORTEMS . . .

At $52,000 for the season, Babe Ruth will be paid approximately $3 per minute for his duties on the ball field this year . . . Harry Newman, Michigan's All-American quarter back, started and finished his career at Ann Arbor in the same way . . . he kicked a field goal with 30 seconds to play in the first half to beat Purdue in 1930 in his first game . . . and in his last game he kicked a field goal with 30 seconds to play in the first half to beat Minnesota in 1932 . . . there was no scoring in the second half of either game . . . If Manager Peckinpaugh is quoted correctly, his rookie southpaw, Forrest Twogood, seems almost too good to be true . . . Jockey Jake (No Boy) Jacobs is touting the filly Swivel as the Kentucky Derby winner . . . The pitcher who doesn't finish his delivery by stepping forward squarely on the flat of his foot will never develop control, says Clark Griffith . . . who tells a minor leaguer from a big leaguer by the way the former takes his finishing stride on his toe . . . This business of naming golf sticks by numbers has eliminated the old familiar midiron, mashie iron, cleek, putting cleek and midmashie.

Whitey Michelson, famous marathoner, was the author of the greatest act of sportsmanship ever witnessed by Post Mortems . . . it was in The Washington Post Marathon of 1925 . . . Michelson, winner of scores of marathons, was running neck and neck on the last lap of the Ellipse with Vernie Booth, Johns Hopkins University star, as they neared the finish of the ten miles . . . never having seen Booth before, Michelson surmised he was a local youth . . . "Go ahead and win, son," he told Booth, "you're a home town boy, and second place will be all right for me." . . . Booth smiled, and said he was from Baltimore . . . he didn't want to win that way . . . but he'd race Michelson to the finish . . . Michelson smiled back, and with a wave of his arm in farewell, proceeded to leave Booth far behind as he sped to the finish line . . . that's gospel . . . Booth told the story in the dressing room at the Y. M. C. A. after the race . . . Mrs. Roosevelt's canter through Rock Creek Park the other day proved to be a welcome shot in the arm for the riding academy business here.

YANKS LOSE TO CARDS, 3 TO 2

Medwick's Homer Is Decisive; Dodgers Win in 13th.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 22 (A.P.).—A home run by Joe Medwick, Texas League recruit, plus midseason pitching by Dizzy Dean and Tex Carleton, gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-to-2 victory over the New York Yankees in the final game of their home and home spring exhibition series today.

Medwick cracked out his first circuit drive off Lefty Gomez in the fourth to put the Cards out in front. The Yankees tied the count in the fifth, but St. Louis put over the winning run in their half of the ninth, a fumble by Crosetti, a sacrifice by Pepper and Charlie Wilson's single sending Allen across the plate.

Foxx Gets Three Hits As A's Win.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 22 (A. P.).—Jimmy Foxx's three hits today were largely responsible for the Philadelphia Athletics' 7-to-6 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

Back at his first base popst after a two-day absence with a bruised shoulder, the big league home-run king cracked out a single, a double, and a triple. Left Fielder Lou Finney also contributed a three bagger.

Greenberg Star as Tiger Yannigans Tie.

San Antonio, Tex., March 22 (A.P.).—Handling 13 fielding chances faultlessly and lifting a lusty three-bagger to center field, Hank Greenberg today played an impressive role with the Yannigans, who held the Detroit Tiger Regulars to a five-run tie in seven innings.

Herring held the Regulars scoreless for four innings while the Yannigans brought in five runs from Wyatt's offerings. Collier took the mound for the Regulars and held the Yannigans scoreless while his mates found Morrow for five runs to tie the score.

DUSEK FACES GROBMIER TONIGHT

Daviscourt to Battle Grobmier on Auditorium Program.

TWO rasslers long favored locally may be placed on the toboggan at Washington Auditorium tonight.

Scheduling a double wind-up as the big punch of his weekly show, Matchmaker Joe Turner has Able Coleman matched against Ernie Dusek, and Dick Daviscourt against Fred Grobmier.

The Grobmier-Daviscourt feud should lend considerable zest to a return go in which Fred will endeavor to square an old grudge.

Grobmier Seeking Revenge.

The ticket sale continues at Turner's Hotel Annapolis office today, ladies with paying escorts again being guests of the house. Only 25 cents for children under 16.

Princeton Five Added To Georgetown's List

Princeton University yesterday was added to Georgetown's 1933-34 basket ball schedule, the second member of the "Big Three" the Hoyas will play on the court next season.

The Princeton date has been set for Wednesday, December 13. Yale is the other outstanding Eastern opponent the Georgetown basket ball team will oppose. The Hilltoppers journey to New Haven on January 30.

Ross Defeats Petrolle As Canzoneri Watches

Ross weighed 135, Petrolle scaled 137¾. Sixteen thousand saw the fight.

Ross' future as championship timber was clearly established as he won nine out of ten rounds from Petrolle. The young Chicagoan did not show great punching power, however. Petrolle took all Ross had and came back for more.

RICK FERRELL SIGNS.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 22 (A.P.).—Catcher Rick Ferrell, last of the St. Louis Browns' holdouts, tonight signed his contract for 1933.

Terms of the contract were not revealed, but it was believed Ferrell accepted a $7,000 salary. He will begin training tomorrow.

Ruppert Quickly Accepts Compromise Offer of Ruth.

Signing Ritual Slated Later; Will Play in Game Tomorrow.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 22 (U.P.).—The incomparable sight of Babe Ruth lambasting a baseball over the fence was assured the American public for 1933 today, when the famed slugger accepted a one-year contract with the New York Yankees.

He will be paid $52,000 which, counting the weeks he will not be engaged in his business, works out at $1,000 a week. Immediately after the signing, which took place in Ruth's modest 14-room apartment, both he and Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, claimed a moral victory.

And both were right, for Ruth originally demanded $60,000 and the colonel had insisted all along that he would pay not one penny more than $50,000.

Ruth Calls 1933 Cut "Amputation."

In accepting $52,000, Ruth took a cut (he termed it an "amputation") of $23,000, for his stipend was an even $75,000 in 1932. Today's conference was called at Ruth's suggestion when he heard that Col. Ruppert was preparing to leave for New York to supervise his extensive brewing interests. And it was Ruth who suggested the compromise of $52,000.

Asked after the conference how he felt about the matter, Ruppert replied, "Fine. It only took us a minute to settle it. Ruth asked me to see him. When I got here I asked him what he wanted. He said $52,000, and I said 'It's settled.' That was all there was to it."

Col. Ruppert was asked why he yielded after he had declared $50,000 was the limit.

"I accepted the compromise because the controversy had reached the childish stage. The folks in New York had begun to believe it was just a lot of ballyhoo and all staged in advance. I did not want to string the thing out to ridiculous lengths."

Ruth said he suggested the compromise because he was tired of remaining on the sidelines.

Lure of Game Too Strong For Babe.

"Yeah, I made the offer," Ruth said, "because I want to get going. I wanta be in first-class shape before the season opens and play in those exhibition games. I am going to work out with the team tomorrow and break into the line-up against Boston on Friday. I'm telling you, it was not easy for me to stick on the sidelines with the club playing games."

Today's ceremony was devoid of ballyhoo. That will come later in the week when Ruth's actual contract arrives from New York and he and the

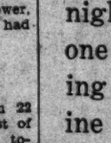
Kenwood Names Ferry Advisory Board Head

A. M. Ferry last night was elected chairman of the advisory board of the Kenwood Golf and Country Club at a meeting during which the following others were elected:

Dr. Karl Henning, vice chairman; Dan Loomis, secretary; C. Royce Hough, golf chairman; Ira L. Tucker, entertainment and house chairman; Paul V. B. Heiss, tennis chairman; Charles H. James, membership chairman; Dr. Edwin H. Ess, ex-officio of membership, and Maj. Frank T. Chamberlin, trapshooting chairman.

James F. Bowen, new club manager, was formally introduced to the board. It was decided to hold another board meeting on March 29.

The golf schedule was presented, but not acted upon.



We hesitate to run this 'adv.' because last night we ran a big one in the Star telling about 93 genuine Power-loomed $35 Harris Tweed Suits being put on sale at $24.75—but we're so afraid that you didn't see it that we are repeating the offer here. Of course, this makes it clear that you'd better hurry!

GENERAL A. SHOWS GAMENESS IN TROPICAL PARK DEBUT

Gen. Thatcher Colt Scores By Head

Porter's Dream Second in Feature; Hibala Third.

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 22 (A.P.).—General A., one of the most consistent horses to race at the recent Hialeah Park meeting, returned to winning form here today when he won the Miami Beach Claiming Purse of 7 furlongs. The son of General Thatcher, strongly ridden by Alfred Robertson, displayed rare gameness to beat Porter's Dream by a head in the good time of 1:25 1-5. Hibala earned the show, a length and a half behind. The winner paid $7.50 in an open betting affair.

General A. was last to leave the barrier in a rather straggling start, but Robertson let the horse settle into his stride. The field was well bunched after a quarter mile or so, with Porter's Dream, Beau Jolie and Hibala leading the field.

Porter's Dream Badly Shut Off.

Porter's Dream was badly shut off turning for home. Hibala, which was in front at the time, appeared to cause the interference. General A. came with a mighty rush and after wearing down Hibala held on gamely when Porter's Dream closed very fast after getting clear. Beau Jolie evidently needed the race.

Flying Dere thrilled the crowd when he had the best of a blanket finish to pay $140.50 for a $2 ticket in the fifth event. The long shot beat Polisher by a head, while the heavily played Bolinty lost the place by a neck. Polisher and Bolinty vied for the lead while Flying Dere kept well up in third place. Turning for home the ultimate winner started a powerful drive on the outside and got up in the closing strides. The victory was Jockey Westrope's second of the day.

Hungarian Champion to Meet Dixie Star in Next Feature.

With two smashing victories to his credit since his invasion of this section two months ago, Pete Sarron, Dixie featherweight champion, will face the acid test of his local campaign Tuesday night at Portner's Arena, where he encounters Miki Gelb, Hungarian titleholder, in the eight-round headline bout of the weekly program for the benefit of the Alexandria Day Nursery.

Gelb's appearance at Portner's promises to lure another large crowd. Featherweight and lightweight champion of Hungary, Gelb, a Hungarian Jew, won 328 bouts while fighting as an amateur, annexing the European flyweight, featherweight and lightweight titles before turning professional.

The supporting cast to the Sarron-Gelb fight will bring into action boys well known around this way. LeRoy Dougan, late of Blytheville, Ark., who won four fights in a row before losing to Eddie Burl, returns to duty on the fistic front in a six-round semi-windup with Billy Landers, blond buzz saw from Norfolk, whose last two fights at Portner's resulted in knockouts.

In another six-rounder, Arthur DeBeve, battle-scarred French battler, will engage Jackie Levinson, fighting Norfolk, Va., boy, who beat Bob Lowry recently at Portner's. The "Terminal Bulldog," Billy Strickler, will step six rounds with Ken Overlin, conqueror of Joe Smallwood and Bob Tow.

A four-rounder also will be added by Matchmaker Frankie Mann, giving the program a total of 30 rounds.

RED BARRY MEETS SHUCO.

Tony Shuco, regarded as the light-heavyweight champion of New England, has been matched to fight Donald (Red) Barry, Washington heavyweight and veteran of over 60 battles, on March 30 in New Haven, Conn., in the first of a number of bouts which his manager, Mushky Jackson, has arranged in an effort to whip him into tip-top shape in his drive to championship honors. They will step 10 rounds.

BEERS' LOSS IS FELT AT WESTERN

Track Team at Least 8 Points Weaker Than in 1932.

FROM Western High School comes word that the 1933 track team will be approximately eight points weaker than the squad that sported the maroon last season. The reason is simple enough. Bill Beers graduated.

Beers won the everlasting gratitude of Western matriculates and alumni with his fine work in the interhigh school championship meet last year, which was rewarded with 8½ points and saved the school from the dishonor of an ignominious goose-egg. His specialty was broad-jumping. He lifted himself far enough over the soil at Central stadium to establish a new record for the meet. But when points were needed he performed in other events and usually made a few.

About 20 lads are working under the direction of Coach Dan Ahern, but none have shown extraordinary promise. One veteran, Sholtes, a dash man, is included in the group.

Other pastimes occupying the attention of Western athletes are golf and tennis, in which elaborate schedules have been prepared for the teams. Gardner and Hale are the only two members of the golf team who will not be back, and Coach Murphy has a wealth of promising material from which to mold his team.

ARROWS WIN BY POINT.

AT THE POST

—with Bill Bennings—

DEAR AL: TROPICAL PARK, MARCH 22.

Well, friend, I guess I'm just the feature-race kid. I slipped you General A. when most of the selectors were looking out the window. However, that's as far as I can go on my picks for today. The others did a lot of running, but failed to go places—at least not fast enough for financial purposes. But I have a rubber chin and the knocks just bounce off. Tonight I have been deep in the books and I have dug up some that I expect to be worthy of the Bennings stamp of approval. Get on the line.

BILL.

FIRST RACE — UPPERCUT did everything I asked of him the other day and I see no reason why he can't make it two in a row. Looks like he will have to beat the faint-hearted, but speedy, JUDGE PRIMROSE. The sleeper here may be INDIANTOWN, which prefers a sprint and gets in fairly light.

SECOND RACE — BETTY WEE turned in a good effort the last time and off that performance I'm going to try to make her beat this group home. FIRENECK and EREBUS appear to be the most threatening of the remainder of the field.

THIRD RACE—FLYING SAILOR, a brilliant performer hereabouts, is dropped in a cheap field which I believe he should take. If there is to be a battle for the big award, I look for ORILEY, an easy winner here, to have a hand in it. SALUT D'AMOUR gets in with a feather impost and is dangerous.

FOURTH RACE—STARBOARD LIGHT is all marked up with apprentice allowances in the entries, but must tote 113 pounds just the same. I see this one the winner, however. BOSCOBEL is in fair form. BROWN WISDOM evidently is not himself, but can show.

FIFTH RACE—CHU CHU is in clever hands and is ready to crack down with a startling race. Tomorrow may be the day and I don't want you to be left out in the cold. Carries only 103 pounds and is in fairly cheap company. BLACKMOCK and MATADI for the rest of it.

SIXTH RACE—This race is something near the brand that RUANE wants. This veteran has shown signs of a new lease on life and may show surprising form. LUCKY CARTER for the place and DONIE, dangerous if right, to show.

SEVENTH RACE—BICHLORIDE has knocked at the door and may do some lively stepping in this heat. DODIODO and ENERGETIC BOY for the remainder.

McManus Demands More Hitting From Red Sox.

Sarasota, Fla., March 22 (A.P.).—After warning several of his players that their batting would have to show immediate improvement or they would be released, Manager Marty McManus today sent his Boston Red Sox squad through a full nine-inning practice game. Haas' Injury Causes Chicox Shift.

Pasadena, Calif., March 22 (A.P.).—Lew Fonseca juggled the Chicago White Sox outfield today to fill the place of George (Mule) Haas, whose ankle injury may keep him out of action for more than a week.

Giants Rally in Seventh To Beat Pirates.

Los Angeles, March 23 (A.P.).—A 4-run rally in the last half of the seventh inning gave the New York Giants a 6-to-5 victory over Pittsburgh in an exhibition baseball game today.

The score had been tied at 2-all until the seventh, when the Pirates engaged in a scoring spree and put across 3 runs, only to be outdone by the slugging New Yorkers. Manager Bill Terry of the Giants hit a home run in the fifth.

U. S. Entries Backed in Chase

9 American-Owned Horses in Grand National Field.

By FRANK H. KING.

AINTREE, England, March 22 (A.P.).—Though lightly regarded by the experts, as well as bookmakers, the traditional success of outsiders in the Grand National Steeplechase reacted today to the favor of Mrs. T. H. Somerville's Trouble Maker. The 10-year-old jumper is the only American homebred due to compete in the ninety-fourth running of the famous race this Friday.

Meanwhile Golden Miller and Gregalach, the latter a former winner, remain cofavorites in a field of about 30 contenders for honors over the 4½ miles of flat racing, barriers and water hazards.

Among the eight other American-owned entries, there will be plenty of sentiment, if not English pounds, backing Dusty Foot, owned by the young American sportsman, John Hay Whitney, and ridden by George H. (Pete) Bostwick, wealthy amateur jockey from the United States. Dusty Foot was quoted at 40 to 1 today.

"I anticipate a thrilling ride around the most difficult course in the world," said Bostwick today. "This will be the first time I've ridden in the Grand National and, indeed, I've never yet even seen Aintree, but I feel confident that with Dusty Foot I've a tip-top chance."

Two American homebreds have failed at Aintree in recent years. Sea Soldier plodded the course last year, finishing eighth. Billy Barton came in second in 1928, but tumbled out of the running in 1929, when there was the biggest field in Aintree history—66 starters, 10 finishers.

Victory in Grand National Pete Bostwick's Life Aim

Young U. S. Amateur Will Ride Whitney's 40-to-1 Shot.

LONDON, March 22 (A.P.).—George H. (Pete) Bostwick, already acclaimed the leading amateur rider of the United States, can claim that rank in the world if he rides J. H. (Jock) Whitney's Dusty Foot to victory Friday in the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree.

Already popularly admired in England for such performances as last Saturday when he rode two winners at Sandown, Bostwick's fate on Dusty Foot is awaited with much interest.

Hopes to Realize Life Ambition.

"I shall realize my life ambition if I can win the race for Whitney," Bostwick told the Associated Press today.

"Dusty Foot can jump a country remarkably well and he should be able to stay the distance, providing we can both escape trouble and interference from loose horses.

"I anticipate a thrilling ride around the most difficult steeplechase course in the world. This will be the first time I've ridden the Grand National and indeed I've never yet even seen Aintree, but I feel confident that with Dusty Foot I've a tip-top chance of going one better than Billy Barton did in 1928 when he finished second.

"I like riding in England as the fences are bigger than in America and the going usually is softer and in better galloping condition."

Dusty Foot, at odds of 40 to 1, is a good outsider. Other betting still is unchanged with Gregalach and Golden Miller, joint favorites at 9 to 1. The only American-bred horse among the nine American-owned who will race, Mrs. T. H. Somerville's Trouble Maker is little fancied at 66 to 1. Many of the Grand National horses are not yet at Aintree and there were few workouts at Liverpool this morning. Most of the probable starting field of 30 to 35 horses will be on the grounds tomorrow waiting the big test of Friday.

In signing for $52,000, Ruth reduced his salary to the same figure he received in 1922. He was paid $52,000 in 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925 and 1926. In 1927, he was boosted to $70,000. In 1930, he was given another raise, this time to $80,000, which was continued the following year.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE change in administrations has created a new interest in radio for several hundred thousand American listeners in that it has brought more than a score of new personalities to the ether waves. The President, of course, heads the list of new broadcasters. His voice became familiar in households from coast to coast during the campaign and the few air appearances he made preceding his inaugural. President Roosevelt's voice, warm and friendly, will be known in every radio home in the land within a few weeks, if it is not recognized already.

The second most interesting radio personality is that of the new First Lady of the Land. Air audiences had a real opportunity to get acquainted with her voice during the series of talks over a national network, concluded by her only the night before the inauguration. There is no doubt but that she will be presented over the radio many, many times during the next four years.

Then there is Mrs. Curtis B. Dall, daughter of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, who talks twice a week in a commercial program over Station WEAF, New York City. It is very likely that Mrs. Dall will speak on national networks in the interest of various charitable organizations, at public functions, &c., during her father's term of office.

THERE is only one member of President Roosevelt's Cabinet who had been heard very often on the air prior to March 4. He is Postmaster General James A. Farley, who was very active on the radio during Mr. Roosevelt's campaign.

Secretary of State Hull and Secretary of the Navy Swanson, as members of the Senate, spoke from broadcasting studios at intervals about the work which they were engaged in at the Capitol.

Secretary of the Treasury Woodin is not quite a new comer to the ether waves. However, he was much better known for his musical compositions, which include the suite "Covered Wagon Days," than as a speaker.

Secretary of War Dern, as Governor of Utah, is probably very well known to the Western radio audiences but not so well known in the East. Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, has been on the radio for the labor interests from time to time. However, she may not broadcast as frequently as her fellow Cabinet members, because she has expressed a dislike of the radio since she came to Washington, classing it "with other noise makers," and admitting that she did not have one in her home.

Other Cabinet officers who will become well known to listeners and who will be heard in the forthcoming National Radio Forum series, are Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Secretary of Commerce Roper and Attorney General Cummings.

MRS. ROOSEVELT and Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, will speak during the broadcast over WOR, Newark, from the dinner given tomorrow night in honor of the latter by the Women's National Democratic Committee. It is the first time either Mrs. Roosevelt or Miss Perkins has been on the air since the inauguration.

A Russian radio program designed especially for the American audience will be rebroadcast from Moscow by Columbia on Saturday afternoon, if weather permits.

Jules Sauerwein, French journalist who is now in Washington conferring with national leaders, will discuss the question, "Is War Impending in Europe?" over WMAL at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

William A. Brady, sr., Sophie Tucker and Queenie Smith will be headlined on the Rudy Vallee variety program (WRC, 8 p. m.). Mr. Brady, dean of the American stage, will appear in a scene from "The Count of Monte Cristo."

Radio entertainers receive many strange requests. Clyde Doerr, saxophonist, recently received a letter from a woman listener saying that she would like to have one of Doerr's wornout saxophones as a souvenir.

The first baseball game of the season will be broadcast by WJSV on Wednesday, April 12, when the Washington Nationals play the Philadelphia Athletics at Griffith Stadium.

As a result of the response from his recent talk on Andrew Jackson's birthday, Lyman Beecher Stowe will continue his talks on the birth anniversaries of famous men over WJSV. He will discuss Patrick Henry in a broadcast this afternoon (WJSV, 11:15 o'clock). Stowe is the grandson of Harriet Beecher Stowe, of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" fame.

ANNE HARD continues to win friends with her radio talks on current events. Complimentary references to this feature have been received from numerous listeners.

Mrs. Hard is heard over WRC at 9:15 o'clock every morning except Saturday and Sunday.

Carveth Wells, well known to radio listeners for his jungle life stories, will be featured in "Jungle Killer," coming to Loew's Columbia, beginning Monday.

Another radio favorite will be in Washington in person, beginning tomorrow. He is Harry Frankel, better known as "Singin' Sam," who will play a week's engagement at the Earle Theater.

Ruth Etting will sing "I'm Sittin' on a Rainbow," "I Never Knew" and "Play, Fiddle, Play" during her quarter-hour on WJSV at 9 o'clock tonight. Leonard Hayton's orchestra will contribute a special arrangement of "Hey, Young Fella."

FRANK LUTHER, soloist on several radio programs, remembers—

The Fourth of July that Phil Napoleon set off a giant firecracker in the studio—while it was on the air.

The night Jimmy Melton and he traded tenor parts of a song neither of them knew or had ever rehearsed.

The night in Atlantic City when Rudy Vallee, John Seagle and he were singing a trio on Rudy's hour of a marching song. They started acting it out as they sang it, and Rudy laughed so hard he had to quit.

The night Theo Albin (who sings "Lucky Days Are Here Again") got caught in a rainstorm and missed his first Magic Carpet signature in five years.

The night the RCA-Victor Hour was short and Frank Crumit and Luther sang "She'll Be Comin' Round the Mountain" for four and a half minutes. They thought she'd never get there.

First Lady to Hear Symphony Concert

Garzia, Former Tutor of F. D. Roosevelt, Jr., to Be Soloist.

Felian Garzia, former piano tutor of Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., will be the featured soloist this afternoon at the National Symphony Orchestra concert at Constitution Hall. The President's son is in school at Groton, but his mother, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, will occupy the presidential box during the concert.

A list of guests who will accompany the First Lady to the concert has not been announced. It will be the first time Mrs. Roosevelt has attended a concert of the Capital's own symphony.

The program for tomorrow's concert follows:

Symphony in G Minor.....Mozart
Symphonic Variations.....Franck
(Felian Garzia, soloist.)
Em Saga.....Sibelius
Rosenkavalier Waltzes.....Strauss

Fireman Asks $50,000 For Loss of His Leg

Robert Simon, 817 Upshur street northwest, a retired District fireman, yesterday sued the City Cab Co. for $50,000 in the District Supreme Court.

Through Attorneys George D. Horning, jr., and Louis Ottenberg, Simon said that when he was placing a fire hose on his fire truck last October 4, at Tenth and L streets northwest, he was struck by a City Cab Co. cab. His injuries, he said, were such that his leg was amputated.

SCOT HELD TRAITOR TAKES STAND TODAY

London, March 22 (A.P.).—Lieut. Norman Baillie-Stewart, who is charged with selling military secrets to a foreign agent, will take the witness stand in his own behalf tomorrow after a short morning session of the court-martial, which will be held in secret.

The prospect of the youthful Scot telling his own story is expected to draw the largest crowd of the trial and police are taking precautions that there may be no disorders.

Today's proceedings were for the most part secret. One witness, heard in public, expressed surprise that such charges had been brought against the young officer.

This witness, Lieut. L. Cromwell, one of Baillie-Stewart's closest friends, testified for the prosecution that he had considered accompanying Baillie-Stewart to Germany last summer, but did not do so. The prosecution charges that the alleged offense was committed in conjunction with a German.

Baillie-Stewart, Lieut. Cromwell said, was "the very last" of his friends against whom he would have expected such charges to be made. The witness asserted that the lieutenant, on his return from Berlin, did not mention the incident of a liaison with a young woman there. Army authorities have testified that when they asked Baillie-Stewart about the source of £90 sent to him from Berlin he said he received it from this woman. The prosecution contends it was payment for military secrets.

Son of Capitalist Is Balm Defendant

James G. Clark Demands $300,000 for Wife's Love in Chicago.

Chicago, March 22 (A.P.).—Norman W. Harris, son of the chairman of the Harris Trust & Savings Bank, was made defendant today in a $300,000 damage suit, alleging alienation of affections of Mrs. James G. Clark, the former Dorothy Funk, of Des Moines and Madison, Wis.

Clark, now a resident of Mount Kisco, N. Y., filed the suit in United States district court. A similar action was dismissed in State courts recently as contrary to public policy.

An appeal to the appellate court has been taken by Clark from the decision of Judge John R. Caverly, that such a suit must not be tried in his court. Judge Caverly asserted that Clark and his wife were "operating a badger game" and attempting to profit from alleged debauchery.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

OUT of the World War came many stories of individual heroism and accomplishment, but none compares with that of Corpl. York, later a sergeant, the Tennessee mountain marksman who almost single-handedly captured a German battalion commander, three of his officers and 128 of his men, after silencing their machine guns.

York, with a party of American soldiers, came upon and captured a group of Germans in a valley early one October morning in 1918. Then, from a nearby hill a burst of machine gun fire mowed down all but York and six other Americans.

Armed with only a rifle and a pistol, York shot one after another of the machine gunners until the nest was silenced. The battalion commander, who, with other captives, was being held by York's comrades, called on his command to surrender.

York then marched his prisoners through machine-gun infested German territory to the American lines. Using the German officers as a shield, he silenced several other machine-gun nests on his way back, adding to his prisoners until at last he had 132.

Strange as it seems, York asked to be excused from actual warfare early in the war because of religious belief—but when his commanding officer convinced him that he had no greater duty than to fight for his country, York became the outstanding hero of the A. E. F.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE FARM BILL MADE EASY.

SIR—I do not seem to comprehend the new farm bill. Could you make it clear to me?

PUZZLED READER.

A.—It is as simple as the Einstein theory, and we are surprised at your confession. Let us suppose you have a chicken farm. You have 100 hens and get 60 eggs a day. There is a market for only 30 eggs a day. You call up Washington. Washington tells you to chloroform half your hens. It sends you the chloroform on the time-payment plan and leases 50 per cent of your henhouse until business picks up.

* * * *

CAROLINA PETE.

A.—Get in touch with your Congressman. Tell him the situation and promise him about ten kegs. He will arrange to have Uncle Sam pay you to keep half your farm idle.

* * * *

Sir: I have a farm of about 300 acres in New England. I am trying to make it pay by raising hogs for market on a plan I got out of a farm journal. I can't make it pay. So what? VERMONTER.

A. Anybody who would try to raise hogs for market in New England deserves no consideration. However, you might get in touch with the Secretary of Agriculture and suggest that he lease 299 acres until the market improves. On the other acre you might run a golf shacking field.

* * * *

Q. Dear Sir: I am in the cloak and suit business. I have a factory with seven floors, but there are so many competitors in the business that am starving. All seemed hopeless until I read what the Government proposes to do for farmers, and I am wondering if they couldn't do as much for business men? Do you think the Government might lease six floors of my plant for a period of years to keep me from losing money? SOL.

* * * *

NO COPYRIGHT RESTRICTIONS.

L. L. M. suggests as a new theme song for the Roosevelt regime, "Hoppy Daze Are Here Again."

It is entirely imaginary, but the story is being told that at the recent dinner to Prof. Einstein one of the diners arose and demanded, "All right. If you're so smart, tell me why they put crimpy colored paper on these lamb chops?"

NO DOUBLING IN BRASS.

Elmer Twitchell has been offered a job as a bank conservator, but has demanded to know whether he will be hired strictly as a conservator or expected to cook and wash dishes.

You don't say so!

Potomac Bank Stock Reported Going Fast

Subscriptions for stock in the proposed Potomac National Bank, which is expected to succeed to the business of Potomac Savings Bank early next week, are coming in rapidly and for large amounts, it was announced yesterday by the committee of citizens representing the section served by this institution and engaged in the plan for nationalization of the bank.

Members of the committee said that there is no doubt that the stock will be fully subscribed by the end of the week. Practically all of the merchants and many citizens of Georgetown and the surrounding counties of Maryland and Virginia, the community served by the bank, are subscribing, they said.

TWO SAY THEY SAW HARRIS NEAR SCENE OF HENRY'S MURDER

Laundry Truck Driver Put on Stand as Surprise in Killing Trial.

In sensational rapid-fire developments yesterday, two Government witnesses, Carroll F. Rhodes, 3430 Brown street northwest, and James F. Hughes, 1756 Kenyon street northwest, placed Charles Harris, alleged slayer of Milton (Milsie) Henry, small-time gambler, at the scene of Henry's shooting on Brown street last April.

Rhodes, an attorney in the Federal Trade Commission, testified before Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, in the District Supreme Court, that he heard some shots and looked out of a window in his home in time to see a man he pointed out as Harris running away from Henry's automobile with a smoking gun in his hand.

Passed Harris Three Times.

Hughes, a surprise witness, said he saw Harris and another man in a large black sedan parked on Brown street on the afternoon preceding the shooting.

Hughes declared he had driven his laundry truck past the machine containing Harris and the other man, three times. Twice, he said, because of the narrowness of the street he had to sound his horn to have the sedan pulled to the curbing so he could pass.

On the second occasion, he said, Harris leaned out of his machine and said: "What the hell! You back here again?" The laundry driver said he made three trips that day to Brown street collecting and delivering laundry.

George Seitz, 63, of 3508 Sixteenth street northwest, another Government witness, declared he heard the shots and turned to get the license numbers on the sedan. As he did, he said, a man he could not identify covered him with a sawed-off pump gun, ran to the machine, which was then gathering speed, and sped away.

Defense Starts Today.

He was asked how close he was to this man, and when he replied "too close" the courtroom burst into laughter.

Seitz blamed the stress of the moment for his failure to be able to identity the "trigger man." He said that he was too busy watching the pump gun to take note of the man's features, but he did say the man wore a gray hat and dark overcoat.

Julian Richards, assistant United States attorney, closed the Government's case with Detective Sergts. Jack Dalglish and Floyd A. Truscott testifying to the arrest of Harris in Philadelphia. They said he admitted knowing Henry.

Defense Attorneys Denny Hughes and Arthur M. Sager, of New York, today will take up the work of presenting Harris' defense. The trial may be concluded today.

Two Families Saved By Ladders at Fire

Six Children and 3 Adults Imprisoned in Home by Night Fire.

Imprisoned in their bedrooms by a fire which broke in the basement, six children and three adults were rescued early yesterday from a house at 3527 O street northwest by firemen.

Awakened by the smoke, Albert Ware, a street car motorman, quickly arose and found the staircase of the two-story brick residence a mass of flames. He aroused his family and cried for help. T. J. Carroll and his family, who occupy the first floor, were aroused and Carroll turned in a fire alarm. In the meantime, Carroll's family were also imprisoned by the flames.

MODEL OF ANCIENT TABERNACLE AND OWNER

THOMAS HEADS D. C. FUNDS COMMITTEE

Oklahoman Succeeds Senator Bingham on Group for Supply Measure.

Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, yesterday was named chairman of the Senate District appropriations subcommittee, which will handle the District's annual supply measure. He succeeds former Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut.

Senator Thomas has no preconceived notions on local appropriations, but plans to participate wholeheartedly in the District's interest in fiscal issues involved, he said last night.

Serving with him will be Senators Glass, of Virginia; Bratton, New Mexico; Copeland, New York, and Coolidge, Massachusetts (Democrats), and Nye, North Dakota; Keyes, New Hampshire; Dale, Vermont, and Carey, Wyoming (Republicans).

The District appropriations bill, on which estimates are awaited daily from the Budget Bureau, will be considered first by the House Deficiencies subcommittee, and passed by the House before it reaches the newly appointed Senate group.

Three members of the Senate District Committee will serve as ex-officio members of the subcommittee under Thomas. They are Senators King, of Utah, and Tydings, of Maryland (Democrats), and Capper (Republican), Kansas.

Chairmen named by Senator Glass to head other Senate Appropriations subcommittees were Senators Kendrick, Wyoming, agriculture; Bratton, New Mexico, deficiencies; Glass, independent offices; Hayden, Arizona, Interior; Tydings, legislative; Byrnes, South Carolina, Navy; McKellar, Tennessee, State, Justice, Commerce and Labor; Glass, Treasury and Postoffice, and Copeland, New York, War.

Avenue Extension Hearings Possible

Buchanan Answers Board of Trade Request on New Hampshire.

The Washington Board of Trade has been promised a hearing on proposals to extend New Hampshire avenue to the District line, if the House deficiencies subcommittee decides on detailed consideration of District bill items, Chairman James P. Buchanan, of the House Appropriation Committee, said yesterday.

"How extensive the hearings will be on this bill will not be determined until the first meeting of the subcommittee," he wrote the Board of Trade. "It may be that on many of the items in the District bill, that the hearings conducted by the District subcommittee will be sufficient.

"On the other hand, if the budget makes material changes in the estimates, it is probable that the subcommittee will conduct hearings on such changes."

Plastering Contractor Asks $50,000 of Union

Stanley Palfrey, plastering contractor, trading as the Stanley Palfrey Co., 1003 K street northwest, yesterday in District Supreme Court instituted suit for $50,000 against Local 96 of the Operative Plasterers and Cement Finishers International Union of the District and nine of its officials.

The suit, filed by Attorney Fred J. Rice, accused the union and the nine members of unlawfully calling a strike of union men employed by him on the Science-Recitation Building at Georgetown University, causing him to lose his contract to plaster the building. The men named as defendants are Harry Rothrey, Herbert Nelson, James Buckley, James McClellan, Walter Moore, Joseph Clements, Alexander Nelson, Louis Zolly and William Pasco.

Worcester Alumni to Dine.

A get-together dinner will be held tonight at the Cosmos Club by alumni of Worcester Academy, Worcester, Mass. The class of 1879 claims the distinction of being the oldest represented in this vicinity and the speaker of the evening, the Rev. O. C. S. Wallace, of Baltimore, '81. Dr. Edwin G. Dexter and Paul M. Filmer are in charge of arrangements.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

Never drive at an excessive rate of speed when your car is overloaded. In an emergency it is almost impossible to keep complete control over your machine when there is any excessive weight resting on the rear springs. The ca has a tendency to swing when driving fast, especially when going around curves and this factor leaves little leeway for control if an emergency should arise.

	1932	1933
Deaths	25	14
Injuries	810	790
Accidents	1,818	1,811

Vaccination Case Defense Prepared

Corporation Counsel's Office to Appear for Head of Schools.

A defense for Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, in the case of the Entz children, who have been denied entrance to the Thomson School on the ground they have not been properly vaccinated, will be built up by the office of the corporation counsel.

The superintendent submitted the case to the corporation counsel yesterday morning after being advised of the order of the District Supreme Court to appear in court on March 30 to show cause why he should not be compelled to reinstate the children.

The defense case is being prepared by Francis H. Stephens, assistant corporation counsel. District medical inspectors will be the principal witnesses. In the meantime, Barbara Entz, 8, and David, 6, are taken to the Thomson School every day by their father, H. H. Entz. At each door they find a guard, blocking their efforts to reach the classroom.

Man 78 Years Old Indicted as Slayer

Koch Accused of First Degree Murder of William Gray, Son-in-Law.

Two first degree murder indictments were returned in District Supreme Court yesterday by the grand jury. One charged Albert Koch, 78, with the slaying of his son-in-law, William Palmer Gray, and the other accused William Archer, colored, with the shooting of Willie Brooks, also colored.

Koch is alleged to have shot Gray in their home at 1420 North Capitol street, after his son-in-law had struck him, when he remonstrated with the younger man because he did not get a job.

Archer is alleged to have shot Brooks during a fight at 2418 I street northwest, February 22. The Gray shooting occurred four days later.

MINIATURE OF FIRST TABERNACLE SHOWN

Mrs. A. C. Otto to Explain Model at Lecture in Church Tonight.

A miniature reproduction of the first tabernacle as constructed by the Jews according to the divine instructions given them when they received the Ten Commandments is in the possession of Mrs. Annie Carpenter Otto, who lives with her brother, Col. W. T. Carpenter, 2928 Courtland place northwest.

The model was inherited from her aunt, Mrs. Adda Carpenter Ulen, of Laramie, Wyo., and Mrs. Otto, an ardent Bible student, has prepared a lecture which she gives to theological schools, colleges, churches and any other interested group, using the model to illustrate her talk.

Mrs. Otto will explain the model at 8 o'clock tonight in the Parish Hall of the St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Sixteenth and Newton streets northwest.

The tabernacle miniature required seven years in the making and all of its details and furnishings are duplicated to scale.

Each Tribe Located.

Every tribe of Israel has its own location with its tents arranged to show the camp as it was arranged around the ancient temple. It was the first structure built for the worship of the monotheistic God and was erected 1220 B. C. It was a portable structure built so that it could be moved from place to place during the 40 years of wandering through the desert of the Jewish tribes.

Built in the wilderness, the tabernacle was dedicated at the first great Passover Feast, in 1221 B. C., and after the Jews were settled in the Promised Land they continued to use it for over 300 years, until erection of Solomon's Temple, which was fashioned on the pattern of the tabernacle.

60 Pillars in Outer Court.

The outer court was formed by 60 pillars of acacia wood with caps of silver and set in sockets of brass. White linen curtains were hung around the court fastened to the pillars. The first piece of furniture in the outer court was, as can be seen in the model, the Altar of Burnt Offerings, made of wood and covered with brass.

Many attempts had been made to make models of the structure, but they were not successful until 1850, when a tablet was unearthed in Mesopotamia, interpreting the dimensions as stated in the Bible.

The model owned by Mrs. Otto takes an hour to assemble, and is a faithful reproduction in dimensions and colors.

Dry Agent Shoots Boy Whose Car Was Chased

Pursuing what he believed to be a liquor car, Federal Agent George J. Gray early yesterday wounded Ervin Rollins, colored, 15, of 28 De Frees street northwest, when the latter stopped the car he was driving and started running near Seventh street and Florida avenue northwest. Rollins was removed to Casualty Hospital, where he was treated for a gunshot wound in his leg.

According to police, the car Rollins was driving, accompanied by W. H. Nichols, 19, colored, had been stolen from John L. Carroll at 22 K street northwest. A search of the car revealed no liquor.

Harpers Ferry, W. Va., March 22.—Potomac and Shenandoah Rivers, very muddy and higher.

2 COMMISSIONERS OF DISTRICT TO BE NAMED BY APRIL 9

Postmaster General Farley Announces Plan to Fill Much-Sought Jobs.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

There will be two and perhaps three new District Commissioners named within the next few weeks.

The announcement that two new Commissioners would be appointed before April 9, the date on which the terms of Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer and Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, retired, expire, emanated from the office of Postmaster General James A. Farley.

The likelihood of a third new Commissioner, supplanting Maj. John Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, was advanced by Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, new chairman of the Senate District Committee.

Committed to a policy of District residents filling District jobs, Senator King has declared his purpose to oppose the appointment of any retired Army or Navy officers to the District Commissionership or other local place of authority.

Reorganization Plan.

That may result in a reorganization of the District government, a matter which already has been discussed by President Roosevelt, who was persuaded that the pressure of national affairs made it inexpedient to advance the proposal for congressional consideration at this time. It is known that Frederic A. Delano, who is accepted as an outstanding resident who has been sincerely concerned with the adequate development of the National, has favored a reorganization of the District government, believing that inasmuch as the District is a Federal reservation greater efficiency could be had through a municipal machine headed by one person.

There is, of course, one outstanding candidate for the commissionership among retired army officers and that is Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford. Should the President nominate the General there will ensue a battle in which Senator King will have widespread support from the local Democratic organization, anti-organization Democrats and Republicans as well who are anxious to have the purely local positions filled with local men or women who are familiar with the problems and wishes of local residents.

A few more names have been added to the steadily growing list of candidates for District Commissioner. One is that of Herbert D. Brown, chief of the United States Bureau of Efficiency, who was the protege of former Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah. Another is that of Thomas Armat, who has been a recognized Democrat, and who was a pioneer in the moving picture industry. Mr. Armat is an inventor, and his inventions are said to have made the movies possible. He owned, or was interested in, the first moving picture theater in Washington, in the old Washington Post Building at Tenth and D streets northwest. Mr. Amat was at one time associated with Thomas A. Edison.

Emery Strongly Backed.

The name of Melvin C. Hazen, District surveyor, horse breeder and friend of Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, inaugural chairman, has been mentioned. Mr. Hazen has been suggested as a dark horse in the race. His health is reported to be poor, however, and it is suggested he is lukewarm about the job, although that is a favorite suggestion to lull opponents to sleep.

The name of Fred A. Emery, widely known Washington newspaper correspondent, also has been vigorously advanced by his friends. Mr. Emery is a Capitol correspondent of long standing who has gained and held the confidence of almost every important House leader for a generation.

Arthur Clarendon Smith is conducting probably the most active and open campaign for the job. He has achieved the indorsement of many neighborhood business associations as well as others. William McK. Clayton, who has made history in the organized citizenship movement, isn't such an active candidate, but he is in the ring.

Contributor Candidates.

The name of John B. Colpoys, chairman of the Democratic central committee, is under active discussion. Mr. Colpoys is said not to want the job, but he is being told by friends he shall have to take it if necessary and if it comes to that he probably would. Hugh Nelson, secretary of the Democratic committee, also has been mentioned, as has William Montgomery, head of the Masonic Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co.; J. Leo Kolb, real estate dealer, who has been decorated by the Pope; Dr. George C. Havenner, George W. Offutt, who is sponsored by Col. Robert Harper, who has been an antiorganization Democrat, and many others.

Several of the candidates for this or that post are reported to have made recent contributions to wipe out the Democratic committee's deficit. John H. Korman, a former prohibition agent, who has been engaged in the oil business, is reported to have contributed $20,000 to Ernest G. Walker, who has been placed at the head of the fund-collecting committee.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, national committeewoman, has been advanced by her friends for Commissioner. Mrs. Harriman is opposed by the local Democratic organization. The organization leaders charge that she not only actively opposed the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt, but that she made derogatory remarks about him after he was nominated by the Chicago convention. In addition, it is contended, Mrs. Harriman deserted Washington during the campaign and passed her time on Long Island trying to elect the millionaire "Sonny" Whitney to the House in place of Representative Robert Low Bacon. Mr. Whitney was defeated.

Morgan's Ambition.

Friends of Jo V. Morgan are busy correcting the impression that he is a candidate for District attorney. Mr. Morgan is not a candidate for that job. He would, however, like to be named corporation counsel, a job now filled by William W. Bride, who has made a good record and has strong backing to keep him in his place.

Mr. Morgan is popular and has been active in politics in nearby Maryland, where he has been an antiorganization man and is said to have incurred the enmity of organization leaders of Montgomery County.

Mrs. Harsha

Who Became Separated From Mate Ought to Find Him Now.

The Police Department last night was still valiantly endeavoring to bring together Mr. and Mrs. David Harsha, of Milburn, Fla., who became separated Tuesday afternoon as they were entering the city, en route to New York.

Marsha, driving a truck laden with household goods, had with him his two children, Ruth and Lee, 4, while Mrs. Harsha was driving a passenger car, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Geraldine Pratt, and her grandson, Bobby, 2. They lost each other at a traffic light.

Finally Harsha decided to stop his ceaseless wandering about the city and took up residence at 5508 Wisconsin avenue, where he intends to remain until he learns the whereabouts of his wife.

WOMAN KILLS SELF; LEAVES BURIAL NOTE

Riverdale, Md., Resident Is Found Dead by Shot in Hotel Room.

Slumped in a kneeling position on the edge of the bed, the body of Mrs. Lucille Byxbee, 42, of Riverdale, Md., was found yesterday by a maid who went to clean her room in the Annapolis Hotel.

A revolver was clutched in her hand and there was a bullet wound in her head. The woman registered at the hotel Tuesday night, and it is believed that she shot herself soon after entering the room. She left a note giving directions concerning her funeral and a sealed letter addressed to Mrs. J. S. Saville, of Hyattsville, Md.

Mrs. Byxbee is said to have operated a delicatessen at Riverdale until recently. It is reported she is survived by two sons, one of whom is a student at the University of Pennsylvania.

Nearly 3,000 View Amaryllis Exhibit

Average of 1,000 Daily See Spectacle of 1,200 Plants.

Nearly 3,000 persons have visited the amaryllis show at the Department of Agriculture greenhouses—an average of 1,000 a day viewing the spectacle of 1,200 blossoming plants. The show opened Monday.

Mrs. Roosevelt admired the display of lilies Tuesday. Among the visitors have been many members of the Diplomatic Corps from tropical American countries, where the amaryllis is a native flower.

The show will continue until next Monday at 9 p. m. It is open to the public each day from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m.

Schools to Participate In Pan-American Day

Plans were started yesterday for participation by local public schools in the Pan-American Day program, April 12, at the Pan-American Building.

Uniformed cadets will carry the flags of various nations. Each senior high school will be represented by fifteen students, while each junior high school will send ten. Large delegations will represent the teachers' colleges.

LEAVE AND PAY CUT QUERIES COMPILED FOR M'CARL TO ACT

Civil Service Commission to Function as Agency for Personnel Body.

Questions regarding the new economy legislation, drawn up by the Personnel Officers Association, will be sent to Comptroller General McCarl today by the Civil Service Commission.

The commission agreed to act as the agency for the association following a meeting yesterday afternoon at which the queries were decided upon.

The list of interrogations will not be made public until after they are received by the Comptroller General today. However, it is known that they will deal primarily with the problems of leave and pay deduction.

The situation is complicated by the fact that the provisions of the new law run into the current economy act, originally designed to cover operations until July 1.

The new legislation also conflicts with the reenactment of the economy act which, with certain modifications, was to go through the fiscal year 1934.

A matter that must be settled is whether payless leave, accrued and unused as of April 1, may be allowed after that date.

It will also have to be decided what is to be done in cases where pay has been deducted for the first nine months of the fiscal year in excess of two and one half days a month. This would effect any employe who took the statutory deduction of a month in some other way than by spreading it over the year.

The personnel officers are also eager to know when the 15 days' leave with pay is effective, and whether leave accrued up to last July 1, when leave pay was suspended, may now be taken.

Some of the problems, it is expected, may be cleared up by President Roosevelt when the rate of the pay cut is fixed.

Resigned Cashier Of Bank Indicted

An indictment, in 12 counts, charging Charles D. Boyer, former cashier of the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., with embezzling $25,791 was returned by the District grand jury yesterday.

Boyer resigned upon the discovery of alleged irregularities in his accounts. Officials have estimated that the total shortage may be in the neighborhood of $141,000. The sum Boyer is charged with taking consisted mainly of cashier's checks, bonds and stock certificates. The investigation by the grand jury was started Tuesday morning and was completed quickly with Department of Justce auditors testifying as to the condition of Boyer's accounts in the bank.

Officers of the bank stressed the fact that the former cashier, whose home is in nearby Virginia, was amply covered by a bond that no loss would be sustained.
